A Useful Fund
Britain Worries
All This Will Pass
Eel, Lizard, Squirrel

— By Arthur Brisbane —

THE PRESIDENT'S confidence and his announcement concerning a five hundred million dollar fund is well received by business, and the stock market.

The most encouraging part of the program, which must be read between the lines, is to increase the "flexibility" of the Federal Reserve board, making it possible for that institution to fulfill its functions as intended.

The plain English of the matter is that the Federal Reserve can print money, issue it against good security, and thus make credit available for those entitled to it.

But with Federal Reserve transactions limited to rediscounting commercial paper, the kind of paper that becomes scarce or disappears in a depression, the Federal Reserve automatically ceases to function when it is most urgently needed.

It is the duty of the country and the Government to reassure the millions of bank depositors needlessly alarmed as to the safety of their deposits, and make it possible for banks to obtain currency against so-called "frozen assets" that can be sold only at an outrageous sacrifice in such times as these.

The British form an unpleasant mob when really aroused, and unlike bigger mobs in India, cannot be handled with light sticks in the hands of a few soldiers or police. For that reason Britain has wisely done whatever was necessary to keep the mob quiet. The dole was part of that necessity.

In Manchester yesterday idle men and women, infuriated by reduction of the dole, attacked mounted police with stones, and were dispersed only by firemen with powerful streams of water.

Abandonment of the gold standard in England, reducing the value of pounds, shillings and pence, cutting down the buying power of the dole that is left, may arouse more trouble.

The British, said to be worrying about "a collapse in the United States," should reserve some worrying power for home use.

By way of reminding you that it is possible to take things too gloomily, John M. Ellis of 25 Broadway, New York City, sends an editorial statement from which extracts follow:

"It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this paper—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension. Never the future has seemed so incalculable as at this time. In our country there is universal commercial prostration and panic, and thousands of our poorest fellow-citizens are turned out against the approaching winter without employment, and without the prospect of it.

"In France the political caldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty. Russia hangs as usual, like a cloud, dark and silent, upon the horizon of Europe. While all the energies and influence of the British Empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely.

"It is a solemn moment, and no man can feel an indifference in the issue of events.

"Of our own troubles no man can see the end. They are, fortunately, as yet mainly commercial. And if we are only to lose money, and by painful poverty to be taught wisdom—the wisdom of honor, of faith, of sympathy and of charity—no man need seriously to despair. And yet the easy basis to be rich, which is the occasion of this widespread calamity, has also tended to destroy the moral forces with which we are to resist and subdue the calamity."

It may comfort you a little, perhaps persuade you that the end of the world has not yet come, to learn that what you read above was published in Harper's Weekly on October 10, 1857, 74 years ago.

In spite of all that gloom, and various Civil War panics that followed it, the United States DID COME BACK.

And it will come back again, more prosperous than ever, more intelligent. Also let us hope that intelligence will take the form of forbidding high financial crooks to dump tens of millions of shares of worthless stock on the gambling public.

One philosophical person, making the best of other men's troubles, says the depression will be good for the United States, "rousing us from our lethargy."

It will stir up new ideas, new resources, and that will be history repeating itself. Our ancestors a million years ago lived in a constant "depression." Their teeth were too feeble to compete with the wolf, their nails not strong enough to compete

JURY PROBE OF MEDFORD BANK

STOCK SALES ARE UNDER INQUIRY

Books of the Closed Institution Examined; Jury to Meet on October 14

District Attorney Warren L. Bishop today announced that he would call a special session of Middlesex grand jury on October 14 to investigate questionable sales of stock of the Medford Trust Company which suddenly closed its doors yesterday.

"I am calling the special session of the grand jury," said Dist. Atty. Bishop, "for the purpose of investigating sales of the Medford Trust Company stock. The grand jury will convene on October 14."

Dist. Atty. Bishop made this announcement, which was heralded exclusively in yesterday's Boston Evening American, following a long conference with Kenneth L. Backman of the Boston Better Business Bureau this morning. State detectives were seen leaving the conference.

COMPLAINTS PROBED

Complaints of the methods used in manipulating stock of the Medford Trust Company had been laid before Dist. Atty. Bishop by the Boston Better Business Bureau several months ago.

The matter had since been under consideration and was brought to a head when the bank closed its doors.

Purchasers of stock complained that they were forced to pay all the way from $126 to $300 for the stock when it was selling at public auction as low as $25 and $50.

Others complained that they were

BANKERS HIT AS CAUSE OF DISTRESS

Borrowing and Lending Should Be for Aid of People, Says President

Washington, Oct. 8 (INS)—Responsibility for much of the economic distress now felt throughout the world rests with American bankers who have made ill-advised loans to foreign countries, President Hoover said in effect today in an address before the fourth Pan-American commercial conference.

Repeating from a statement made to this same body four years ago, President Hoover declared that "no nation, as a government, should borrow or no government lend and nations should discourage their citizens from borrowing or lending unless this money is to be devoted to productive purposes."

If this advice had been followed during the past five years, problems throughout the world would be far different, and difficulties infinitely less, the President declared.

His address was made before the third plenary session of the conference which is meeting at the Pan American Union. He did not mention tariffs, the subject which has been uppermost in the minds of most of the delegates, but this topic was on the program for discussion immediately following his talk.

The President said:

"I am most happy to extend to you the warmest possible welcome on behalf of the government and people of the United States. We are grateful to you for coming to Washington at this time to discuss the commer-

Aimee Talks of Her Hair, Marriage and David

"Everybody's happy over our marriage," said the present and former Mrs. McPherson. "The members of my Temple think it was just the right thing for me to do. They call me 'The Marrying Parson' because I have married so many couples. And they said I always had a wistful look in my eyes after each ceremony. And they think it is much nicer in my roaming about the country to have a husband."

Aimee issued the following official reply to all her critics.

"It ain't so."

She also denied she had dyed her hair, which the last time this reporter interviewed her appeared a golden red. Now it is a light brown.

"It was always brown," insisted Aimee.

She was dressed in a blue wool crepe suit with a platinum fox collar and wore a blue mid-way Empress Eugenia hat with a small swirl of feathers.

She wore a large corsage of orchids.

"David gave them to me," she said proudly.

Hutton wore a rose in the lapel of his gray suit.

"Aimee gave it to me," he said proudly.

They posed with arms about each other for pictures.

"Nothing is sacred to photographers," laughed David.

At one point in the interview when reporters segregated Aimee

"We Are Terribly in Love," Aimee Declares

"We are terribly in love. Ours is a perfect marriage from three points of view—friendship, love and evangelism."

"He sings like an angel. He says he fell in love with me the first time he saw me. I fell in love with him the first time I heard him sing. He was singing 'Nay, I Will Not Let You Go,' and I knew he was singing directly to me.

"We've been married three weeks, five days, 15 hours and 23 seconds, and we're just as happy as we were when we started.

"If you want to be happy pick out a man with ideals similar to your own."

AIMEE HERE TO 'DRIVE OUT THE DEVIL'

Evangelist Lands on Boston Airport to Be Greeted by Large Delegation

Swooping out of the skies, Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, noted woman evangelist, landed spectacularly from a plane on East Boston Airport today for a week's revival in Boston Garden.

Accompanied by her new 200-pound husband, the three-hundred revivalist was tendered a tumultuous ovation by an assembled throng, as the noted couple stepped hand-in-hand from the New York plane.

They had ridden a tail wind at a speed of 150 miles an hour from Hartford, but arrived at 1:25, 20 minutes late, owing to a delay in starting from New York.

Carrying red roses and wearing a blue ensemble with a fur neckpiece, Mrs. Hutton's first words on arrival, accompanied by a smile, were:

"I'm delighted to be in Boston."

Then to the delegation, of the Four Square Gospel Church of Chichester, she said:

"God bless you. It's nice to see so many of you here."

HANDSHAKES AND KISSES

For F. C. Winters, her business manager, and Rev. William McLean of the Four Square Gospel Church, who sponsored her visit, Mrs. Hutton had a handshake with kisses for either wives.

She expressed much pleasure over a large bouquet of autumn flowers, brought by the church members, and presented by Winters.

Her husband, David Hutton, a huntsman, who will lead the hunt of 1000 riders, was then brought forward for introductions.

He wore a gray suit with light gray and spats, and walked with a slight limp. He beamed on the evangelist, as they posed for photographers.

MOUNTS REAR SEAT

After Mrs. Hutton had exchanged a few words with Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Loaming and Mrs. Eleonor Gigsby, from Angelus Temple in Los Angeles, who were in the delegation, the party hurried its waiting autos.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutton mounted to the rear seat of a machine driven by Leon Duray, famous racing driver, while Richard Dunn, manager of the Boston Garden, who had accompanied them from New York, with Mr. and Mrs. Winters took forward seats.

Miss Emma Schaffer, the evangelist's secretary, who also came with her, and other members of the BRISK ADVANCE IN WALL ST.

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—Eager buying sent stocks bounding upward in one of the most impressive advances of the year today. The advance began modestly, but gained momentum throughout the later hours of the session.

Advances of 4 to 6 points were numerous, while Auburn shot up more than 20.

Issues up 4 to 6 included U. S. Steel, North American, American Telephone, Dupont, Woolworth, American Can, Atchison, New York Central and New Haven. Sales exceeded 2,300,000 shares.

School Contract Awarded

A contract for construction of a 12-room elementary school in the Chapman District, East Boston, was awarded the Rugo Construction Co., at a cost of $143,747 by Mayor Curley today.

4 MONTHS FOR SCHOOL HEAD

Four months imprisonment was imposed on Miss Maud Wayland Fisher, operator of Fisher, Inc., a manageuse school, by Judge Francis J. Goode in municipal court today after he had found her guilty of theft in four counts.

Miss Fisher immediately appealed.

Announcing his verdict and the sentence of one month in jail on each complaint, involving a total of $175, Judge Goode said he found Mrs. Fisher guilty of misrepresenting the stock in her establishment which she sold to two girl pupils, but added he failed to find her guilty of the misuse or conversion of corporation funds, with which she also was charged. He also acquitted her on two other larceny counts.

TWO RED LEADERS SEIZED IN LAWRENCE STRIKE

EDITH BERKMAN IS NOW FACING DEPORTATION

Harry Canter Is Arrested With Her; More Workers Quit in Wage Cut Protest

Lawrence, Oct. 8—Edith Berkman, firebrand leader of the radicals among the 25,000 striking mill operatives, was arrested again today as she led a crowd of 2000 followers to storm the police station and courthouse.

Also arrested was Harry Canter of Boston, former Communist party candidate for Governor of Massachusetts, and a leading figure in the Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations.

After arresting the girl leader, police drove the shrieking radicals back to the Common, where a few minutes before she had taken command with the battlecry:

"On to the courthouse!"

Bailed at midnight, she was again in custody half an hour before her scheduled appearance in court for speaking without a permit yesterday.

LASHES HER OWN GANG

She was arraigned following her arrest today, was released on $500 bail and proceeded to denounce the radicals in a hall on Essex st. for failing to save her from arrest.

"You failed me," she shouted. "You'll never win unless you fight."

Police said it was her farewell speech here, because late today she must appear in federal court in Boston to show cause why her $5000 bail on deportation proceedings should not be revoked.

GOES AWAY WITH CANTOR

Leaving the Essex st. hall shortly after noon, she waved goodby to the crowd and stepped into a coupe with New York registration plates. Cantor took the wheel and started for Boston.

Sophie Melvin, blonde radical, succeeds her. Deportation proceedings were started today against several others arrested since the strike started.

After haranguing a crowd of approximately 5000 on the Common this morning, Miss Berkman started the march toward the police station and courthouse with nearly half the throng marching two abreast behind her.

WILDCAT IN ACTION.

Across the street came Sergt. James C. Reardon and Patrolmen Albert Sleed and David Leighton to meet them. They seized the girl and carried her to the station, while she clawed and kicked and screamed for help.

The howling mob followed, but out of the station swarmed 50 officers, who dispersed the crowd back to the Common, where they mingled with non-radicals gathering for a meeting. Canter only was arrested.

Canter was released on $200 bail for hearing Oct. 13 on a charge of creating a disturbance, the same charge as that placed against the girl.

Harry Eranhall, 60-year-old Communist, a figure in local labor troubles since the big strike of 1912, was released on $200 on a charge of speaking without a permit and disturbing the peace yesterday.

Federal authorities were notified that two men arrested yesterday had only their first citizenship papers. They are Minas Pappas, 28, of Saratoga st., and Jacob Rebsko, 42, of Lowell st.

TOLD TO "SIT DOWN"

After her case was continued by Judge Chandler, Miss Berkman tried to talk, but was ordered by a court officer to sit down. A matron took her by the arm and led her from the court room.

Fines of $10 each were imposed on Anthony Finelli of Groton st., Frank Moulis of Chelmsford st. and Vincenzo di Tomaso of Canton st. They appealed.

300 MORE WALK OUT

Under the urging of strike pickets, approximately 300 employes of the Prospect Mills walked out today. This American Woolen Co. plant was the only one in the city hitherto unaffected by the strike against the general wage reductions.

At the Arlington Mill, where 250 of 5000 workers appeared yesterday, only a dozen reported for work today. They made their way through lines of jeering pickets to the gates.

A sudden shift of sentiment caused a walkout of 200 employes at noon at the Kunhardt Mill, where previously it had seemed that the workers were satisfied with concessions made by the management.

The strike may have been due to hissing and jeering of pickets, both radicals and non-radicals, who put on an appearance at the mill gates at noon.

Explaining his policy, George E. Kunhardt said that the minimum wage for men employes, hitherto $19.83 a week, would now be under $18. This is a reduction of a little more than 8 per cent. Otherwise the Kunhardt Mills adhere to the general wage cut of 10 per cent.

FEDERAL CHAIN TO HANDLE BIG CREDIT FUND

Hoover Plan Backed by Mellon and Bankers in Secret Conference

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—President Hoover's plan to ease the financial strain on the nation's banks moved swiftly today toward actual operation.

He was informed by Governor Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve Bank that the proposed $500,000,000 credit corporation was expected to be incorporated within 48 hours and that details of the completed proposal would be laid before every clearing house and banking group in the country at once.

The plans contemplated a director for the institution from each of the 12 federal reserve districts. Its operations will be national and not regional in scope.

It was disclosed the plan had been discussed by the President with a group of New York bankers last Sunday night at Secretary Mellon's apartment and that they agreed to it then.

FEDERAL RESERVE CHANGES

The plan presented by President Hoover to amend the Federal Reserve act to permit broader classes of paper to be eligible for rediscount at Federal Reserve banks was said to be designed to replace and take over the work to be carried on by the bankers' organization, which was regarded as only a temporary affair.

The government is considering a recommendation to Congress that the profit of Federal Reserve Banks be turned into a revolving fund through which money could be advanced on good assets of suspended banks and paid to depositors to enable them to carry on their usual business.

FUND FROM EXCISE TAX

Under the federal reserve act the banks pay a portion of their profits to the government as an excise tax and this money, it was said, could be placed in a revolving fund which could be used to make money quickly available to depositors of suspended institutions.

Any money advanced to closed institutions on the good securities would be returned to the government when the banks' affairs were liquidated.

The government's share of the profits of the Federal Reserve System from 1914 to the end of 1930 was $147,126,882.

England's Unpleasant Talk of Us

(Editorial reprinted from the New York Evening Post, Oct. 5, 1931.)

The Evening Post, both in its special financial correspondence from London and in its general dispatches concerning English opinion, has been finding of late frequent reference to "an American collapse."

Mr. Gerald Barry, for instance, the energetic young editor of an independent Tory weekly, the London Week End Review, says roundly:

"It now seems certain that America cannot escape a collapse."

Our own correspondent, Mr. Raymond Gram Swing, wires us that:

"There is no inside information quoted here about American financial troubles, but British fears of the American position are remarkably widespread."

We think that someone should tell London either to put up or to shut up.

By that we mean that those Englishmen who are feeding out the prophecies of an American collapse ought either to specify what they mean or stop spreading vague insinuations.

We can tell them that the effect over here is not overfortunate either for themselves or for the world situation. In the first place our people are beginning to have their English sympathy changed to antipathy.

At the start American opinion admired English patriotism and courage and the way in which Ramsay MacDonald personified both qualities. That feeling is altering decidedly.

Today we find English whispers undermining foreign confidence in America.

We find English financiers telling the nations that America has not the technically trained men to become the "world's banker."

We hear that we haven't enough world knowledge or world responsibility to call a conference on the gold standard, "to draw up rules for its administration," as Barry puts it, "and to assure the world the rules will be kept."

Our natural reaction to this kind of talk is to re-examine its source.

And we can tell England quite plainly that instead of blindly admiring her, we are now beginning to ask ourselves why she got us to lend her $400,000,000 to save the pound and then abandoned the pound over night.

Why wasn't it enough, and, if it wasn't enough, why did not she know it beforehand and not ask useless credit?

Also, why did England plunge off the gold standard in one fell swoop without thought of her creditors or the world at large? And, finally, how does England have the nerve to force us into a gold conference to save her from the effects of her own act?

There is, in New York, in other words, a growing feeling toward England of what we might describe as half-truculent, half-superior confidence.

We know that we are entering upon "our hundred years."

We've got to be the world's banker, whether we want to or not. When we need technicians in this line, if we haven't bred our own, we'll buy them from abroad.

And we certainly will turn our slow, almost lazy, wrath against England if she continues to break American stock values and put brakes on the pound's descent by what almost looks like a definite propaganda of an "American collapse."

U. S. ACTION ON MURDOCK

Judge Bingham in Federal Circuit Court today took under consideration a petition of Asst. U. S. Atty. McElroy of Rhode Island to reverse his previous action in granting William T. Murdock, secretary of the National Textile Workers' Union, a Communist organization, his freedom on $4000 bail.

Murdock was arrested in Rhode Island several weeks ago after he had figured in strike troubles at Lawrence and at Central Falls, R. I.

At that time he asked a writ of habeas corpus in the U. S. district court in Rhode Island and was refused. He appealed and Judge Bingham allowed him his freedom on bail.

Inspector Chase of the Boston immigration station, Patrolman McDonald of the Boston police and Commissioner Carr of Lawrence told today of inflammatory remarks they said Murdock made since his release.

with the panther's claws. They could not climb away from danger like the monkey, or fly away from it like the bird. THEREFORE THEY HAD TO USE THEIR BRAINS. And on that necessity all our progress is based.

In the present emergency, only thinking, planning and working are essential to the success that can be found as well in a depression as at any other time. The man of 1931 requires the equalities that Voltaire attributed to himself in a letter to D'Argental. "I am subtle as an eel, lively as a lizard, and industrious as a squirrel."

It is well also to be as thoughtful as an elephant, and as persistent as a spider. It no longer suffices to be vice president of a trust company, awell out your chest and say solemnly, "I suppose so."

Paris invents the rumor that Eugene Meyer, Jr., head of the Federal Reserve, favors bi-metallism, but Paris misunderstands that bland young gentleman, whose face, as innocent as that of an incubator baby, is the mask of a mind that works incessantly, ably, and believes in the soundest kind of sound money.

"Nothing done suddenly," is his motto.

It may be that he, like everybody, is asking the question, "Is there enough gold in the world to provide a foundation, a 'standard,' for the amount of money required by modern industry and commerce?"

induced by certain brokers to switch their holdings in the Mellon Trust Co. for securities of a doubtful value.

A washerwoman was induced to buy it for $300 a share. Her case and cases of a similar nature are to be laid before the Middlesex Grand Jury.

Bank Commissioner Guy announced today that he had assigned state bank examiners to examine the books of the trust company and that no further statement would come from his department until they had completed their investigation.

He thought it would take them five or four weeks to finish the check-up.

Salvaging the assets in the big job ahead, he said, Many of the 20,000 savings depositors called at the main bank and at ots three branches to inquire about their savings. Scores of them were members of the Christmas Club.

WOMAN LOSES $10,000.

They found the main bank on High st. and the three branches guarded by policemen, who gave them their cue of information.

Mrs. Almond said she had drawn $110,000 from a Boston bank last week and deposited it with an additional $200 in the Medford Trust Company. Returning from New York today with but $1.80 in her purse, she went to the bank to draw some more money and found it closed.

A man said he had just deposited $500 on Wednesday when the doors were closed almost on his heels. A young man came with $50 to deposit today and went away relieved to think he hadn't come two days ago. A woman who said she wanted to pay part payment on a note was admitted.

CITY FUNDS TIED UP

It was learned today that the city of Medford had $200,000 deposited with the Medford Trust Company, of which $125,000 was a time deposit and $75,000 as a salary deposit to pay off city employes. Part of the city sinking fund was also deposited with the Medford Trust Company.

State Treasurer Hurley reported that there were n estate funds in the bank.

Chicopee, Oct. 8 (AP)—Following divorce action begun yesterday by his wife, Joseph Tyminski, 33, hanged himself in a closet today. The couple had been quarreling and yesterday the wife caused the papers to be served.

CRIPPLE NEAR DEATH IN ROW

Hartford, Ct., Oct. 8 (INS)—Recovering consciousness in Hartford hospital today, William Kent, 30, of Worcester, Mass., told police and of Worcester, Mass., of having been beaten up by a truck driver near Thompsonville last night, and left in a coma by the roadside when an artificial breathing device he uses was knocked out of place.

Kent, a helper on the truck, said he and the driver got into a fight over a pint of liquor and got out to settle their differences with fists. Because he has a withered arm, Kent said, he was quickly beaten senseless. He remembered no more.

Hospital authorities said a motorist brought the unconscious Kent to Hartford, where physicians found that a rubber tube protruding from the man's neck to enable him to breathe was misplaced. Had he remained unaided much longer, they said, he would have died.

WIFE'S ACCUSER 'A FOUL BALL'

Providence, Oct. 8—"He may have been a pitcher at Brown, but he was a foul ball in this courtroom."

With these words and the further characterization of Arthur Sondheim of Brookline, Mass., as a cad, Atty. Max Winograd concluded his argument today in the case of Mrs. Dorothy Chaiklan against her husband.

Judge Baker then granted Mrs. Chaiklin separate support from Isador M. Chaiklin. In the latter's behalf, Sondheim had testified that he was friendly with the wife.

Judge Baker remarked that he could not understand why the former Brown athlete gave such testimony when he lived outside the state and could not be forced to appear as a witness.

Casey Is Named as West Roxbury Judge

The name of Daniel W. Casey, of 20 Lorraine ave., Dorchester Plain, former Representative and former assistant district attorney of Suffolk county, was today submitted by Gov. CAPONE OFFERED TO PAY TAX ON BASIS OF $266,000 INCOME

COUNSEL CLASH OVER CAPONE EVIDENCE

Documents Show Gang Chief Had Offered to Pay on $266,000 Income

Federal Bldg., Chicago, Oct. 8 (AP)—The government attempted to introduce into the records of Al Capone's income tax trial today a mass of documents purporting to show that the gang chief had admitted a tax liability and attempted to settle with the revenue department.

As the first witness was called and the prosecution asked him to identify one of the documents defense attorneys announced:

"This is a line of evidence to which we object strongly and are prepared to argue a point of law."

OFFERED TO SETTLE

The jury was excused and Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. Samuel G. Clawson read to the court what he expected to introduce as evidence.

This included the alleged statement by a Capone attorney that the gangster admitted he owed "some tax" and would be willing to settle on the basis of a $266,000 income as follows: $26,000 in 1926; $40,000 in 1927, $100,000 in 1928 and $100,000 in 1929.

Prior to 1926 the scarfaced big fellow made only $75 a week as an employe of Johnny Torrio, the attorney was quoted as telling the government.

Lawrence B. Mattingly, a Chicago attorney who specializes in tax matters, was the man quoted profusely in the government's exhibits.

LETS LAWYER TALK

The first exhibit of the group was a power of attorney, allegedly signed by Capone, in which the gangster informed all those concerned that Mattingly could represent him in conferences with revenue agents and make any lawful agreements on compromises with them.

A stenographic report of an alleged conference in which Capone himself took part also was read to the court, but the gangster was quoted as saying little except:

"I'd rather let my lawyer answer that."

He did say, according to the exhibit, that he had no bank accounts, no real estate, no safe deposit boxes, and that he owned no race horses and that he carried his money on his person.

Since Capone left the employ of Torrio (the gang boss whose place he took) the attorney was quoted as saying that the defendant had been associated with three other men in a business enterprise, but that because Capone entered the business with no capital, his return in the first few years was not large.

A group of regular employes received one-third of the profits, said a Mattingly letter to the revenue department, and Capone and the other heads of the business each took one-sixth.

WILL EAGLE CLAW HIM?

Alphonse Capone gazed pensively at the figure of the American eagle above him as he sat in the courtroom at Chicago during his trial on income tax dodging charge. Just now Al is trying to dodge the eagle's talons.

3 Towering Mountain Ranges Submerged in Polar Sea

WILKINS BACK, TELLS OF SUB TRIP

Old Theories of Earth Formations Under Arctic Ice Shattered

By HERMAN GIESKE

(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

New York, Oct. 8—Three submerged mountain ranges were discovered in the Arctic Seas by scientists in the submarine Nautilus, Sir Hubert Wilkins revealed on arriving in America.

Accompanied by Lady Wilkins, Sir Hubert arrived on the North German Lloyd liner, Bremen, looking hale and hearty.

The mountain ranges, whose valleys were 2000 fathoms deep, with peaks only 400 to 600 fathoms below the surface, were a profound surprise to the three scientists aboard the Nautilus, Sir Hubert said.

MOUNTAINS CHARTED

They were able to make a partial chart of all three ranges, which ran from a point off Spitzbergen toward Greenland. Explorers and scientists hitherto imagined that the North Polar basin had a fairly even saucer-shaped contour.

Sir Hubert declared he expected to lead another expedition to the Pole in a smaller submarine, especially built.

SOIL ANALYZED

Sir Hubert declared that scientific data of high value had been gathered. He said:

"We were able to get specimens of the strata at the bottom of the Arctic ocean.

"By means of a special apparatus, we got not merely the surface ooze, but specimens from borings that were 20 inches deep. These samples of the sea floor are now being analyzed microscopically by Dr. Harald Sverdrup, Dr. H. Villinger, and Dr. Soule. We believe their report, which will be made in four or five weeks, will be of great scientific significance, for no one actually knows what does lie at the bottom of the Arctic ocean. One sample was crumbly. So far we haven't been able to account for that."

BLOND CURLS FOR MARY

Mary Garden returned to the United States on the S. S. Bremen with her hair a mass of blonde curls. She was formerly a red head. Maybe, if you asked her, she would have said auburn. The singer is to do radio and concert work in the principal cities of the country. (International Newsreel photo.)

GANGSTERS KILL WOMAN THIEF

Chicago, Oct. 8—Lillian Miller, shoplifter and onetime friend of Frank McErlane, gangster, was found shot to death today in McErlan's automobile. Her body had been riddled with bullets by gangsters.

Miss Miller, also known as Mrs. Mary Ryan, shot McErlane after a quarrel in February, 1930.

WIFE TELLS OF PETTING PARTY

Mrs. Josephine M. Jameson of Marlboro, wife of Robert H. Jameson, an official of the Marlboro Gas & Electric Company, suing him for separate support on the ground of cruel and abusive treatment, testified today beofre Judge Leggat in Middlesex court that she saw a woman leave the house by the back door one night when she and her son, Robert, returned from Scituate.

"We entered by the front door," she testified. "The lights were out and the radio was playing softly. I started upstairs. Suddenly my husband ran out of the dining room in his shirt sleeves, grabbed a coat in the hall, rushed to his car and drove around to the back door. I saw a woman come out of the house and get into the car."

The witness also testified that she found a woman's wearing apparel and pocketbook and a five-pound box of candy in the living room.

The son Robert had previously testified to this incident.

AMOSKEAG HIT FOR $5,000,000

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 8 (AP)—Treasurer Frederick C. Dumain of the Amoskeag Co. has reported to the annual meeting of stockholders that stocks and bonds owned by the company have depreciated approximately $5,000,000 in the falling market. The Amoskeag Co. is a holding corporation.

The statement showed that securities costing $11,925,594.77 and carried on the books at that figure June 30, 1931, had a market value of $6,832,746 on September 30. The assets for 1931 totalled $16,817,874.50, compared with $17,332,659.99 for 1930.

The company closed the fiscal year with a balance of $199,760.21, about $1,500 more than in 1930.

Henry F. Rauch was elected secretary and William Amory, William Dexter and Robert G. Stone trustees for three years.

$30,000 Paid Back for "Short" Coal

Providence, Oct. 8 (AP)—The school committee today accepted $30,000 from the Robert E. Smith Coal Co. in full settlement of shortages in coal deliveries to schools over a period of four years.

Peiping, China, Oct. 8 (AP)—J. G. Thomson, British manager of Peiping-Mukden Railroad, reported today that 12 Japanese airplanes had dropped 36 bombs on the town of Chinchow, 150 miles south of Mukden, inflicting an undetermined number of casualties.

Tokio, Oct. 8 (AP)—Rengo News Agency received word from Mukden today saying Chinese reports indicated Chang Hsuehliang, governor of Manchuria under the Chinese Nationalist regime, was concentrating military forces at Chinchow.

ROBINSON FOR EXTRA SESSION

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—An extra session of Congress to deal with President Hoover's credit proposals and other necessary economic legislation was advocated today by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader.

The Senate minority leader said the President's program was sound as far as it went, but suggested as supplemental actions the provision of funds to allow federal and joint stocks land banks to grant extensions of credit, and the arrangement for renewal of 1931 crop loans to farmers.

THREE CARS IN CRASH; 1 HURT

A street car, a coal truck and an automobile figured in a collision at Clay and Hancock sts., Quincy, today, in which Louis Klein, of 193 Essex st., Malden, driver of the truck, suffered slight injuries.

Klein's truck was struck by the car, operated by J. N. Lee, of Garfield st., Quincy, and careened into the automobile of Michael J. McGrath, 24 Standish ave., Quincy. None of the vehicles was badly damaged and Klein, his head cut by glass, was the only casualty.

NEW CLUE IN COLLINGS CASE

White Plains, Oct. 8—Sheriff Louis Elrod announced today that Suffolk County officials were on their way to White Plains to question Oscar Huebner, 55-year old marine engineer, in connection with the murder of Benjamin T. Collings of Stamford.

What new clue to the strangling on Long Island Sound prompted the officials to interrogate the engineer again was not divulged.

He was questioned previously after having been arrested for violation of parole from the county children's court.

At the time Suffolk county officials explained that Huebner resembled the general description of the older of the two "pirates" who Collings' widow said boarded their cabin cruiser on the night of September 8 and killed her husband.

In her story of the attack, Mrs. Collings said the older of the two "pirates" told her he had three children. Huebner has three.

Another possible new clue was being probed today by Chief Inspector John J. Maguire of Providence, R. I., who is seeking two men seen in that city whose descriptions tally with those of the "pirate" slayers.

The pair was believed to be still in Providence looking for work.

BOSSY VICTOR IN SECOND ROUND

Newburyport, Oct. 8—Mayor Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis wore a broad grin today—a $10 grin.

The controversy in the city council that precipitated a row with President Eugene Twomey, and cost "Bossy" $10 in court, was won without another word from the fiery mayor.

Although it was lost in the shuffle of last fortnight's street fight, the differences arose over a transfer o money from the High st. construction job to the Water st. work so wages of laborers could be paid.

When the council refused to meet with Boss, he delivered a tongue lashing in City Hall and the Gillis-Twomey one-rounder followed.

Last night, in special meeting, the council passed the order while Mayor Gillis sat silently by. The laborers will be paid Saturday and Bossy is satisfied.

EDISON IS HELD BY VITALITY

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 8 (AP)—Thomas A. Edison spent a very restless night, but did not appear weaker today, his physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, announced in his morning bulletin.

"Mr. Edison passed a very restless night," the bulletin read. "He ate a fair breakfast and does not appear to be weaker than last night. His vitality is amazing."

Dr. Howe said that ordinarily he would be able to predict when a patient in Edison's condition would slip into the coma preceding death, in the case of Mr. Edison, however, he said such a prediction was impossible because the aged inventor was making such a valiant battle for life.

Dr. Howe said that although his examination did not reveal Edison was any weaker today, still it was only natural to suppose that the inventor was constantly if very gradually weakening.

Cermak Sees Capone 'Plain Crook'; Vows to Have Him Jailed

Chicago, Oct. 8 (INS)—Mayor Anton J. Cermak said today that Capone is no romantic figure. He is just one of those crooks that the mayor means to lay hands on sooner or later.

"If they don't jail him this time, they will in the end," he said. "I'm not worrying. As an individual Capone is not important. He's just one of a bunch of crooks I mean to get rounded up and driven out of Chicago.

"There's a dozen gangsters in the town every bit as bad as he. And once they're in jail they can rot there before I'll let 'em out again!"

BREMEN PLANE RIPPED OPEN

Parrsboro, N. S., Oct. 8 (AP)—Searchers held no hope today of finding two German ship-to-shore mail pilots alive in the mud flats of Cobequid Bay, where they crashed early Tuesday.

The wreckage of their plane, New York, was located yesterday by Lieut. Leigh, Canadian flier, and later bits of smashed wings, a customs manifest and Bremen passenger lists were found strewn off Economy Point.

Lieut. Leigh said he sighted what he believed was one of the bodies and hoped to locate it today. A damaged pontoon prevented him from descending. He said the wrecked plane looked as if the fliers had struck a rock, ripping their fuselage to shreds.

LOWEST BIDDER LOSES JOB

By a vote of five to three, the governor's council today refused to award a contract for state road work in Avon and Randolph to Arute Brothers of New Britain, Ct., lowest bidders.

By the same vote it recommended to the state public works commissioner that the contract be awarded to Powers Brothers of Brockton second lowest bidder, because citizens of the state living near the job would be employed.

Those favoring the second lowest bidder were Councillors Edmond Cote of Fall River, Chester I. Campbell of Quincy, Luther M. Andrews of Brookline, James H. Brennan of Boston and Eugene B. Fraser of Lynn.

Those favoring the Connecticut firm were Lieut.-Gov. William S. Youngman and Councillors George D. Chamberlain, Springfield, and Walter E. Schuster, Douglas.

ADMIRAL'S BOAT SUNK, 6 SAVED

Cape Henry, Va., Oct. 8 (AP)—A man believed to be Rear Admiral Newton A. McCully, retired, and five of seven orphaned Russian children he adopted in 1926, were landed here today by the pilot boat William D. Sanner.

The man and children immediately boarded a bus for Norfolk without giving details of the reported sinking of their motor cruiser in the Chesapeake Bay sometime during the night.

Admiral McCully's cruiser was believed to have been rammed and sunk by the Norwegian steamer Verona.

Admiral McCully, who has been in the naval hospital in Annapolis, Md., left there yesterday in his cruiser for a leisurely trip to his home in Charleston, S. C., accompanied by the children.

THEBAUD WINS FROM START

Gloucester, Oct. 8 — Young schooner and old sailormen won today over old schooner and youth when the Gertrude L. Thebaud distanced the Elsie.

Primed for international fisherman race honors next week, Thebaud was manned by Capt. Ben Pine and crew of veterans.

Two years off their ways, and with sails recut, the Thebaud showed real power.

The Elsie, 21 years old and manned by 20 youthful Sea Scouts, was far in the ruck.

Thebaud got away to an early start, leading for three miles in a ruffling match.

Capt. Billy Nickerson with Elsie forged ahead at the six-mile marker.

Crossing into the beam wind, Elsie was blown off her course, while Thebaud rounded the 12-mile marker nearly three minutes ahead.

After 18 miles the second round was abandoned, when officials saw little chance of Elsie making up the lead.

Another trial with the Elsie is scheduled tomorrow. Then the Thebaud will race the Lunenburg schooner Bluenose.

Nobel Prize for Writer Who Is Dead

Stockholm, Sweden, Oct. 8 (AP)—The 1931 Nobel prize in literature was posthumously awarded today to Dr. Eric Axel Karlfeldt, the Swedish lyric poet who died six months ago.

Under the rules of the Nobel Foundation the works of a deceased author are ineligible for the prize, but if the recommendation is made before the writer's death the prize may be awarded.

CANNON PROBE IS OPENED BY GRAND JURY

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—The political activities of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., today went under grand jury scrutiny.

Just before examination of witnesses began, counsel for the Southern Methodist clergyman filed a brief with Dist. Atty. Rover denying there was any legal ground for prosecution.

RECORDS STUDIED

Former Senator Joseph E. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey and E. C. James, New York financier, each of whom contributed thousands to the bishop's anti-Smith work in 1928, headed the 21 persons subpoenaed. Volumes of records on the cleric's financial transactions also have to be studied.

The grand jury will be called upon to decide whether indictments should be returned for violation of the Corrupt Practices Act. The proceedings were ordered after the Senate campaign funds committee had taken voluminous testimony on financial transactions by the bishop and his co-workers.

WONT TESTIFY

The bishop and Miss Ada L. Burroughs, who assisted him in the anti-Smith work, have declined to testify in the Senate's inquiries into that work.

Among witnesses before the grand jury will be the Rev. J. Sidney Peters, secretary of the 1928 campaign headquarters, and Dr. A. J. Barton, collaborator with Cannon in organizing the campaign.

27 GRADUATED ON SCHOOLSHIP NANTUCKET

Graduation exercises for 27 boys of the Massachusetts Nautical School were held today on the training ship Nantucket at Boston Navy Yard. Capt. William E. McKay, chairman of the nautical school commissioners presided.

The ship was decorated and parents, relatives and friends of the boys were present. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. Ashley Day Leavitt of Brookline. Speakers were Commissioner Clarence E. Perkins and Rear Admiral Louis M. Nuiton, commandant of the First Naval District.

Perkins presented the alumni association prizes for all round work to Stanley A. Thombs of Palmer of the seamanship class, and Herbert W. Knowlton of Arlington in the engineering class.

Capt. McKay presented Maritime Association prizes for academic studies to Stanley A. Thombs of the seamanship class and Malburne J. Peabody of Georgetown in the engineering class.

The Woods-Whitman Memorial prize presented was by Commissioner Theodore L. Storer to Thombs for highest standing in seamanship and navigation. Dr. Leavitt gave Bibles, presented by the Massachusetts Bible Society. Diplomas were presented by Frank W. Wright of the State Department of Education.

Filene's Automatic Bargain BASEMENT for MEN

Our 18th semi-annual event!

WHY have we been able to have 17 successful $11 clothing sales?

WHY have we sold about three-quarters of a million dollars' worth of clothing in these sales alone?

WHY have men bought nearly 75,000 of these $11 suits and overcoats? BECAUSE they are not ordinary clothes made to sell at $11—but accumulations made over a long period of time—a small lot here—a large lot there.

In this 18th sale tomorrow the majority of the garments are from nationally known distributors. At least four famous names are represented.

Among the 4103 garments you will find 806 BLUE SUITS—almost unheard of at $11.00—and not only men of regular sizes, but those who wear odd sizes will find a bargain.

That's WHY we expect this to be the biggest event of all 18.

VICTIM BURNED BY KIDNAPERS

St. Paul, Oct. 8 (AP)—Burned and beaten, Morris Rutman, 37, women's dress shop proprietor, was released by his kidnapers today after being held prisoner three days at a White Bear lake cottage near here.

Friends reported some money had been paid by relatives, but this could not be verified.

Unemployed Raid Hotel

Madrid, Oct. 8—A hundred unemployed made their way into the Palace Hotel and forced the waiters to serve them food.

LABOR TAKES UP JOB ISSUES

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 8 (AP)—Exhorted by speakers to take up the "big stick" and "compel" Congress to relieve unemployment under threat of political reprisal, the American Federation of Labor convention went to work today on the controversial issues before it.

Salient in the grist of resolutions up for discussion was one introduced by Miss Florence Curtis Hanson of the Teachers Federation.

This resolution would put the federation on record with a demand for government employment assurance, work insurance financed by State and federal aid, creation of a large reserve fund to support the unemployed in crises, shorter working hours, State control of industry and a "long range" plan of public works.

Several speakers yesterday referred to "social revolution" and "social unrest" as a possible result of failure to solve the unemployment problem.

Now the Mule Has an Apology Coming

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 8 (INS)—The time-worn tradition that the lowly mule is a mean, stubborn beast was blasted today by Dr. Robert R. Morgan, psychology professor at Northwestern University.

"Mules are not naturally stubborn," the professor said. "I have known army sergeants who have raised mules by kindness, and these mules grew up to be gentle and tractable beasts."

Banker Is Suicide as Jury Convicts Him

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 8—After a jury had found him guilty on 15 counts of mishandling funds in trust companies, H. S. McCormack, financier and chairman of Glendale, shot himself through the heart last night, and died in Superior Judge Elliot Craig's courtroom.

GOING TO THE LAST PLACE ON EARTH

Flower-covered casket with the body of Senator Dwight W. Morrow leaving the First Presbyterian Church at Englewood, N. J., following the simple funeral services at which the nation's statesmen took their places beside the humblest townsmen to pay final tribute to their friend and associate. Burial followed the services with simple rites at the grave in Brookside Cemetery. Only the immediate family was present at the interment.

MISSING LYNN GIRLS RETURN

Two 15-year-old Lynn high school girls missing from their homes since Tuesday night returned today after a vain attempt to reach the movie colony at Hollywood.

They are Thelma Maynard of 117 Essex st. and Mary Glazebrook of 12 Lilly st. The latter is said to have had an argument with her mother about riding in automobiles with strange men.

The girls said they had set out for Hollywood and got as far as Revere, where they decided hitch-hiking was a dangerous proposition.

GAIN IN INDIANS SURPRISES U. S.

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—The American Indian, said by scientists to be doomed to "die out," proved unexpectedly prolific in the last decade.

The 1930 census showed the Indian increasing by 47,960, a 36 per cent gain, which, with a 16 per cent gain in the population at large, was pronounced "impossible."

The experts attributed it to an inadequate 1920 census and to a closer check on mixed bloods.

In Robinson county, N. C., Dr. L. F. Schmeckebier counted 4115 Indian children under 10 years of age in a population of 12,405 Cherokees and Croatans. The Indian population of North Carolina jumped from 11,824 in 1920 to 16,579 in 1930.

In Glacier county, Mont., he found 1026 Indian children under five years of age per 1000 Indian women between the ages of 20 and 44—almost double the white children ratio of 540 per 1000 women.

Silk Stockings in Canada 'Going Up'

Montreal, Que., Oct. 8 (AP)—The drop of the Canadian dollar as compared with United States currency caused serious increase in the cost of production in the silk industry, P. R. Watson, St. Catherines, Ont., president of the Silk Association of Canada, told the annual meeting of the association.

The increased cost must be included in prices or the industry will be impaired, he said.

George Raps Mellon in 'Depression' Talk

Gainesville, Ga., Oct. 8—Senator Walter F. George of Georgia today blasted a "series of responsible human acts, policies and practices of government" for the business depression. He told the Georgia convention of Kiwanis Clubs here that with the inauguration of President Harding, "the corporate interests in the person of Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, assumed complete control of the government."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food don't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

HOOVER FACES REVOLT OVER DEBT PLAN

By ROBERT S. ALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Oct. 8—A definite movement was underway among Democratic and Progressive leaders today to fight any attempt by President Hoover to put through a two-year extension of the inter-governmental debt moratorium unless Europe acts to scale down reparations and drastically cuts armaments.

Senator Borah (R.), Idaho, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, set these two conditions as absolute essentials before he would give his approval to any further "breathing spell" to Europe on the ten billion dollars of war debts it owes the United States.

GARNER OPPOSED

Representative Garner of Texas, Democratic leader for Speaker, was not only adamant against the extension but declared his intention of opposing the one-year moratorium.

Other Democratic and Progressive legislators also expressed hostility to the President's proposal with the result that there is a distinct undercurrent of significant opposition against it in congressional circles.

The spark that aroused the legislators was the realization that what the President had attempted to pledge them to at his special conference Tuesday night was not an extension of his one year reparations and war debt moratorium of last June but an extension limited solely to war debts.

This would apply only to the money owed to the United States. Reparation payments due the Allied powers by Germany were unaffected by the President's plan.

MEANS CANCELLATION

The Hoover formula was characterized as cancellation by congressional leaders. For the United States to extend the holiday on debts owing it and not to require that Europe do the same on debts it claims would mean, these leaders declared, that this country would never be able to collect any more payments.

Additional information on what transpired behind closed doors in the Tuesday night White House conference reveals that the part in the original statement read by the President dealing with the moratorium was the longest section in it.

Debate over the issue took up half the time of a "three hours' conference and no agreement on any part of the agenda would have been reached but for the fateful strategy of the veteran floor leader, Senator Watson (R.), Indiana.

PRESERVES HARMONY

Although personally opposed to the debt proposal, Watson urged that it be left in the hands of the President and that the conference agree to the three banking measures. This was done and the atmosphere of harmony was preserved.

It is now also known that Undersecretary of the Treasury Mills, with the support of Secretary Mellon and Governor Meyer, of the Federal Reserve board, made a determined fight to put through the moratorium plan.

Missing Defendant in Another Court

John Farese, 32, of Watertown was a much-wanted man today. When he did not appear in the Middlesex Superior Criminal Court, East Cambridge, for trial on indictments charging him with attempting to burn a building to defraud an insurance company, a search for him was instituted.

He finally was located a block away in another courthouse awaiting trial on an auto charge. The auto case was continued a week and then Farese walked to Superior Court, where trial was resumed.

Connolly Sworn in by Judge Williams

John P. Connolly, 37, of 1 Cedar st., Roxbury, today was sworn in assistant clerk of Suffolk Superior Criminal Court by Judge Harold P. Williams. Connolly, elected a Representative in 1928, served until today, and resigned to accept his new post.

cial problems of common interest to the nations of America.

"You are meeting during a period of widespread economic depression, but this fact emphasizes rather than diminishes the necessity for the nations of this continent to take counsel with one another.

"We recognize that the prosperity of each and every nation contributes to the prosperity of all.

"It is important that at conferences such as this the experience of each and every nation should be placed at the disposal of all in order that we may profit by our successes as well as learn the lessons of our failures.

LENDING AND BORROWING

"There is one lesson from this depression in which I would emphasize, and I can present it no more forcibly than by repeating a statement which I made to this conference four years ago, when we were in the heyday of foreign loans:

"I stated, in respect to such loans, that they are helpful in world development provided that always one essential principle dominates the character of these transactions; that is, that no nation as a government should borrow or no government lend, and no loans should discourage their citizens, from borrowing, or lending, unless this money is to be devoted to productive enterprise.

"Out of the wealth and the higher standards of living created from enterprise itself must come the ability to repay the capital to the borrowing country. Any other course of action creates obligations impossible of repayment except by a direct subtraction from the standards of living of the borrowing country and the impoverishment of its people.

WORLD WOULD BENEFIT

"In fact, if this principle could be adopted between nations of the world—that is, if nations would do away with the lending of money for the balancing of budgets for purposes of military equipment or war purposes, or even that type of public works which does not bring some direct or indirect productive return—a great number of blessings would follow the entire world.

"There could be no question as to the ability to repay with this increasing security capital would become steadily cheaper, the dangers to national and individual independence in attempts of the lender to collect his defaulted debts would be avoided, there would be definite increase in the standard of living and the comfort and prosperity of the borrower.

"There could be no better step taken in the prevention of war itself. This is perhaps a little further toward the millennium than our practical world has reached, and I do not propose that these are matters that can be regulated by law or treaty. They are matters that can be regulated solely by the commercial and financial sentiment of each of our countries.

"If this body may be able to develop the firm conviction, develop the understanding, that the financial transactions between nations must be built upon the primary foundation that money transferred is for reproductive purposes, it will have contributed to the future of the western hemisphere in a degree seldom open to a conference of this character."

"I repeat this today, because had it been followed during these past five years our problems throughout the world would be far different, our difficulties infinitely less.

"I have learned with particular interest and gratification that by far the greater number of those in attendance at this conference are not governmental delegates, but representatives of the commercial and financial establishments of the several American republics.

HELP PRIVATE BUSINESS

"Particularly do we in the United States hold to the theory that commercial enterprise, except as rare emergency action, is essentially private undertaking, and that the sole function of government is to bring about a condition of affairs favorable to the beneficial development of private enterprise.

"It is the failure to comprehend this conception in the relation between the function of government and the function of private enterprise that sometimes leads the thoughtless to assume the existence of an international indifference which does not in fact exist.

"The larger significance of your meeting is attested by the fact that at stated intervals the accredited representatives of the governments and of the commercial organizations of this continent come together with a view to interchange of experience and fostering that mutual confidence without which the development of international commerce is impossible. Your work possesses a significance far beyond the concrete problems with which you have to deal.

"Permit me in closing to combine with my welcome the confident expectation that your deliberations will redound to the benefit of all the nations of this continent."

AIMEE HERE TO 'ROUT DEVIL'

party took their places in machines and the procession started over the Lindberg route to Hotel Lenox, headed by two motorcycle officers.

Through Chelsea and Charlestown few persons on the streets recognized the woman revivalist, but one small boy with sharp eyes shouted, "Hello, Aimee," and received a wave and a smile in return.

ENTHUSIASTIC OVER GARDEN

As their car rolled on its way, Mr. and Mrs. Hutton were seen holding hands, and the Italian court suite of ten rooms had been reserved. Mrs. Hutton was greeted by another throng. Across the street students in open windows of a Boston University building shouted, "Hello Aimee," as the evangelist descended from the auto. She waved in return, and there was more cheering from the students.

After further posing, Mrs. Hutton and her party entered the hotel, where she was received by Managing Director L. C. Prior. In the crowd she spied Mrs. Gigsby and rushing over kissed her, saying:

"It's good to see you here."

DEVOTED HUSBAND

In the suite above stairs the evangelist chatted with newspaper people, while her husband sat in a large chair, following her every movement with devoted glance.

Atty. F. W. McEnery Is Dead in Waban

Atty. Frederick W. McEnery of 6 Beacon st. died at his home in Holly rd., Waban, today following a long illness. He graduated from Boston University Law School in 1915, and was widely known in Masonic and military circles.

He was a 32d degree Mason. He leaves his wife and a daughter, Miss Marion McEnery.

Two Girls, Two Boys Vanish

Two 16-year-old girls, one a student at Abington High School and the other at Rockland High School, and two boys of the same age are being sought by police today, at the request of the girls' parents, following their simultaneous disappearance Tuesday morning.

They are Ruth Cullinan of Abington and Lillian Gardner of Rockland, and the boys are George E. Ajeman of Rockland and a youth named Fontaine of Braintree. Neither of the latter attended school but had been much in company with the girls at other times, police were told.

AIMEE TELLS OF HER HAIR

from David, the former, in a pretty flurry of excitement, exclaimed:

"Where's everybody gone?" meaning Mr. Hutton.

Aimee said that the quarrels with her mother "were exaggerated" and that she and her mother were "now in harmony." However, the mother is no longer connected with the Temple, she added.

David said he hoped there would be a football game in Boston while he was here, as he had always dreamed of seeing Harvard on the gridiron. He rates himself a real football fan and en route from the Coast wanted to get off at South Bend, Ind., to see the Notre Dame team.

Aimee said she still stands four-square for prohibition and does not favor modification of the Eighteenth Amendment even to permit 2.75 beer.

"If you give a tramp a chance to get his shoulders in the door his head will soon follow," she asserted. "Before prohibition it was nothing to see each telegraph pole supported by a drunken man. But prohibition changed things. Why, my children have never seen a drunken person."

Some saucy reporter inquired: "Where have they been?"

Aimee ignored the impertinence.

Tomorrow will be Aimee's birthday. At first she wouldn't speak in numbers, but later relented.

"They'll only add a dozen years if I don't tell my age," she said. "I'm 39."

The evangelist believes that the nation is on the verge of a great religious revival.

"Everybody's been on a vacation from good old-fashioned religion and the devil's been working overtime," she said.

Action Without Harm Whenever Constipated

Here's a way to be rid of constipation and its ills—a way that works quickly, effectively, but gently.

A candy Cascaret at night—the next morning you're feeling fine. Breath is sweetened; tongue cleared; biliousness, headaches, dizziness, gas vanish. Repeat the treatment two or three nights to get the souring waste out of your system. See how appetite and energy return; how digestion improves.

The action of Cascarets is sure, complete, helpful to everyone. They are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have the 10c boxes.

How One Woman Lost 20 Pounds of Fat

Lost Her Double Chin
Lost Her Prominent Hips
Lost Her Sluggishness

Gained Physical Vigor
Gained in Vivaciousness
Gained a Shapely Figure

If you're fat—remove the cause! KRUSCHEN SALTS contain 6 mineral salts that assist your body organs to function properly.

When your vital organs fail to perform their work correctly—your bowels and kidneys do not throw off waste material properly—fat tends to accumulate—before you realize it—you're growing hideously fat!

Take half a teaspoonful of KRUSCHEN SALTS in a glass of hot water every morning—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—in 3 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished.

Notice also that you have gained in energy—you feel younger in body—keener in mind. KRUSCHEN will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

Get an 85c bottle of KRUSCHEN SALTS (lasts 4 weeks). If this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the easiest, safest and surest way to lose fat—if you don't feel a superb improvement in health—so gloriously energetic — vigorously alive—your money gladly returned.

BIG BUSINESS AHEAD IN AUTO INDUSTRY

Sales Manager C. H. Bliss, Nash Motors Co., Kenosha, Wis., talking to dealers and salesmen of the Nash New England Co. at a meeting here yesterday, stated that present business conditions are building up a large potential future market for motor cars.

C. H. Bliss

Bliss and Pres. H. J. Cunningham, of Green, Fulton & Cunningham, advertising company, Chicago, came to Boston during a tour.

According to Bliss, figures show that more than 30 per cent of people using cars now own them outright, a larger number than ever before. They continue driving old machines rather than buy new ones. Because of this lack of buying there will be a great volume of orders whenever conditions change for the better.

NEW BUSINESS METHODS

New England was said to be in better financial condition than other sections because of its diversified industries.

He stated that business men of the country are going to school again learning the fundamentals of making money through checking overhead costs. At Kenosha, the Nash company is operating under new methods, although it never went outside the bounds of fundamental principles, being known as an example of what real executive ability and organization co-operation could produce.

Bliss then went on to show that business men who began meeting changed conditions a year or more ago by making surveys of their organizations, then putting into effect real economies, were today making some money. He made it plain that this did not mean chopping everything to the bone, but persuading the entire force to forget the clock, pay less attention to golf, etc., and plunge into work with courage and determination.

SPEEDY RECOVERY

Bliss said history shows the automobile industry recovers more quickly from periods such as the present, and it will be the same story when conditions change. The 1932 motor shows with their new models will be a big stimulus, he said.

Cunningham spoke about the great part advertising plays in everyday life, and how it has a stabilizing effect in times such as these. He said a good indication of a trend toward better times was the increasing volume of newspaper advertising.

He explained that present day averages in business should not be compared to the boom period, but rather on a basis of cycles of three or five years. With better knowledge of operating now it will mean possibilities of making money on less volume. As conditions improve then there will be increased profits proportionately.

Speed Killed Two

Washington, Oct. 8 (INS)—The derailment of a passenger train on the Southern Pacific near Dome, Ariz., on August 5 was caused by excessive speed on sharp curve, the Interstate Commerce Commission announced today.

CUTE LITTLE KATHERINE HOWE, DAUGHTER OF the Dudley Howes of Worthington rd., Brookline, is announcing her engagement this afternoon to Francis Bradley. We hear she has been engaged for several months, but has waited until this time to surprise her friends. Miss Katherine is small, of the true American type, light brown hair and blue eyes.

Mr. John Bowditch gave a large stag dinner Tuesday evening at his place in Concord. He is master of the hounds and spends most of his time hunting. His son, Francis Bowditch, is a freshman at Harvard.

Mrs. Lorna Lindley and daughters, Joan and Betty, are visiting in Dedham with the William Nickersons for the month of October. Joan's debut will be at the Ritz-Carlton later in the season.

KATHERINE HOWE

Another "bud" who will step out of the small circle is Eliza Bowditch, daughter of Mrs. E. Sohier Welch of Louisburg sq. Miss Bowditch should have temperament if she inherits her mother's qualities; Mrs. Welch, who was Margaret Pearmain, eloped with young Dr. Bowditch and later divorced him. She became devoted to Barbara Welch and was much of her time at the Welches' town house at 125 Beacon st., later marrying Mr. Welch.

Lovely Presentation Outfit for Deb

MISS ELIZA WILL HAVE A LOVELY PRESENTATION outfit as her mother has been in Paris and brought home some beautiful gowns for her. We hope she won't be all dressed up and no place to go. Eliza's aunt, Mrs. John Pearmain, is the great-granddaughter of S. S. Pierce, and another aunt is Mrs. Eliot Jones of West Cedar st.—how in the world so many people can live on West Cedar st. and breathe is quite a mystery—we suggest that it be renamed Sardine Row—and she is one of the Peg-leggers with Mrs. Shurcliff, father's sister.

MR. FREDERICK BIGELOW has closed his handsome house in Chocorua, N. H., and returned to his home in Philadelphia. His son and daughter have been put on a train for California to join their mother, Mrs. Mary Lowell Bigelow, who has just been granted a divorce. Mr. Bigelow is very popular in his home city and is one of the valued editors of the Saturday Evening Post.

THE WEDDING GUESTS AT Harriet Morse's reception should have a great time. Mrs. Morse, her mother, is very popular and as full of pep as when she was a girl. Louise Clough, of Lyme. She and her sister, Mrs. Stevenson of Newton, were two of the belles of the shoe city. Her introduction to Milton came through a business associate of her late husband, Robert Herrick, and she carried her popularity to that quiet town. She has never drifted away from her old friends, however, on the North Shore and the Creightons and Cloughs are still very intimate.

YESTERDAY WE HAD TEA at the Copley-Plaza with the entertainment committee of the Boston horse show. Mrs. Gardiner H. Fiske, Miss Dorothy Neyhart and Mrs. Robert B. Almy. A dark red hat performed miracles for Mrs. Fiske, she looked positively pretty. Perhaps it is only that we have always seen her in the regulation riding clothes, derby, veil and impedimenta—meaning draped skirt—anyway, she looked years younger. For moments we had our doubts if she was really the same clever lady who has won so many silver cups with her horses and riding. But, of course, no one but Mrs. Gardiner Fiske has THAT smile, so sweet and gracious with a merry twinkle behind the eyes. She was the thrill of the day to us.

WE FELT SURE WE HAD gone to the wrong place when a lovely lady in green—hunter's green naturally—came up and rescued us in the lobby. Miss Dorothy Neyhart, daughter of Adnah Neyhart, secretary of the Boston horse show, trotted us to the tea-table whereon were piled heaps of delicate sandwiches and cakes, not to mention TEA—almost our favorite drink—so we stayed.

* * *

IN SPITE OF THE TEMPTATION, we are not going into superlatives about Mrs. "Bob" Almy, because we have the Horse Show ahead, and she is one of the High Lights, so we simply cannot use ALL our adjectives today. She knows, and so do you, gentle reader, that she is always a headliner with us.

* * *

THE COMMITTEE ANNOUNCED that the annual dinner-dance would be given the first night of the show, Tuesday, the 27th, and is a party in honor of the visiting exhibitors and friends to which all are invited, provided they can dig up three bucks—note the cut prices this year. There is more news about this horse show than you could shake a riding stick at, but that will come later.

RUTH LOVERING BECOMES BRIDE OF RICHARD ALMY

Reception Follows at Hotel

Four o'clock this afternoon is the hour set by Miss Ruth Lovering and Mr. Richard Almy for their wedding in the Leslie Lindsay Memorial Chapel of Emmanuel Church. Wearing a gown of heavy white brocade with insets of tulle, a lace cap and tulle veil, and carrying a prayer book rather than the usual flowers, the bride is being escorted to the altar by her uncle.

Her cousin, Miss Mary Lovering, of Hoffman, N. C., and Miss Helen Warren, of Marlborough st., are both filling the role of maid of honor, and eight friends are in the bridesmaid group: Miss Frances Burnett of Southboro, Miss Anne Turkerman of Ipswich, Miss Elizabeth Jackson of Westwood, Miss Rebecca Hallowell of Milton, Miss Marie Rogers of Scranton, Pa., Miss Catherine Olney of Charles River Village, Miss Elizabeth Thomas of Boston and Mrs. Auguste Belmont of New York, the former Miss Elizabeth Saltonstall. They are wearing long, simply fashioned gowns of bois de rose velvet, set off by dark brown velvet hats and shoes.

Miss Lovering, the daughter of Mrs. Lyman Lovering of 101 Chestnut st., is a Vincent Club and Junior League member, having made her debut during the 1929-30 season.

Mr. Almy, who is the son of Mr. William Almy, of Quansett Farm, South Westport, will have his brother, Mr. William Almy, Jr., of Warrenton, Va., as his best man, and the guests will be seated by a large number of his college friends, the Messrs. Robert B. Almy, of Brookline, another brother, William Benjamin Bacon, of Jamaica Plain, Philip Boyer of Manhasset, L. I., Charles Morgan, Jr., of Westbury, L. I., George S. Barton, Jr., of Worcester, James M. Hammond of Brookline, Walter S. Hardis of New Orleans, La., William A. Rossell of North Andover, Thomas E. Eastland of Burlingame, Cal., and Harry W. Poett, Jr., of San Mateo, Cal. Howard Landley of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., Joseph S. Cunningham of Milton, James Parker, 2d of Boston, E. NOTHING LOOKS more out of place than to see a woman at a morning wedding gotten up as though she were going to an afternoon bridge party. She is then merely something that is so much out of place that it becomes conspicuous.

OF COURSE, no one would think of wearing sport things to a wedding of any consequence, though they might be accepted for general town street wear. But the sort of a dress or suit that comes between the sport thing and the afternoon thing is the correct type of wear at this time.

* * *

REDS ARE distractingly smart this season, especially in rich dark tones, and Burgundy red boucle fashions the suit pictured, appropriate for all day wear. The skirt has shaped gores giving a slight low flare, echoed in the wrist length jacket, with its nipped-in waist, and diagonal closing, accented by cross-over, adjustable shawl collar of seal skin.

* * *

THE ONE button closing is repeated at wrist of well tailored sleeve. The hat of black batters plush has its moulded brim curved low on right side, held to crown on opposite side by two Prystal ornaments. The bag is of black grain leather, its ring handle of dull silver. The black kid gloves are stitched in white and cut to flare cuff.

Street Dress at Wedding

By ANN ARDEN

MORNING WEDDINGS are, of course, not nearly such dressy affairs as those that occur later in the day. The only things to wear are strictly street clothes.

* * *

NOW THESE may be the more formal type of street clothes, such as you might wear when attending a luncheon at a hotel. But they should be very simple and plain though made of the finest materials.

Gandhi in Fear of U. S. 'Joke'

London, Oct. 8 (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi is willing to go to the United States if American friends can convince John Haynes Holmes, New York pastor, that the Mahatma would not be made a laughing-stock. Gandhi said today:

"Holmes, in whose opinion I place the greatest reliance, tells me my visit would be misunderstood, that I would be exploited, ridiculed and misinterpreted. On the other hand I've had pressing invitations signed by leading Americans.

"If these can convince Holmes I ought to go to America I shall be glad to reconsider my decision. I feel sure that I have a great many friends across the Atlantic, and I don't want to sacrifice that friendship.

"Einstein, after visiting America, said it was the greatest mistake of his life because most Americans regarded him only as a spectacle."

London, Oct. 8 (AP)—Mahatma Gandhi announced today at the meeting of the Indian minorities committee, presided over by Prime Minister MacDonald, that he had failed completely to settle the Hindu-Moslem communal problem.

He qualified his statement, however, by saying this does not mean he has abandoned hope of ever arriving at a solution.

"I propose," said he, "to use the present failure as a stepping stone to success."

N. E. Exhibitors Lead Others at Food Fair

New England concerns are the leading exhibitors in the annual Boston food fair and household appliance exhibition which opened at 1 p. m. at Mechanics building today.

Practically every state in the union, however, will take some part in the exhibition which covers three acres of floor space and will continue until October 17.

An entire model grocery store and a cow and dairy maid, sculptured in butter, are among the many and unique exhibits.

Bacharach Seen as Morrow Successor

Washington, Oct. 8 (US)—The name of Rep. Isaac Bacharach, of Atlantic City, entered discussions today as a possible successor to the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, of New Jersey.

A staunch Republican, closely allied to the Old Guard, Bacharach would undoubtedly meet the approval of President Hoover.

Paris Bankers Sail for U. S.

Paris, Oct. 8 (AP)—Vice-Governor Charles Fanier of the Bank of France sailed today to confer with the heads of the Federal Reserve Bank in New York. He was accompanied by Robert Lacour-Gayet, director of the bank's economic section.

The head of one of France's greatest banks and the French bankers went to the United States so that they could study President Hoover's financial proposals before Premier Laval arrived.

"Prolongation of the Hoover moratorium," he said, "would involve a loss for France of two and a half billion francs yearly. This would mean the French government must find an equal sum in order to balance the budget."

LOVE, NOT MONEY, NOW RULES OVER AMERICA

By GILBERT SELDES

A PROFOUND CHANGE has come over the spirit of American advertising, and as American advertising is the great expression of the spirit of the American people, I assume that we, also, have changed—and so much for the better. It was said, in the dim greedy years before the bubble burst, that Americans cared for nothing but money, and all you needed for proof was a look at the ads. Why were you urged to buy Kunningkut Klose, except for the raise in salary these clothes would bring you? For what purpose did you learn to play golf and buy a motorboat? For business contacts on links and lakes. And you brushed your teeth because you wanted to smile at a good prospect.

GILBERT SELDES

Parallel with this absorption in money was our indifference to the arts of love. (Surely you remember that "American men know nothing about love." Anything repeated four hundred and eight thousand times can be remembered.) Obviously we were too busy making money. Women were supposed to be interested in love and to use certain soaps, lipsticks, and lingeries because these would make them attractive to men; but women, after all, were not typical Americans.

Love Conquers All

The great change which I observe in that superficiousness indifference to men now emphasize the advantages to be gained in terms of love, not money. Your suit must be pressed, your socks must stay up, you must use certain appliances to develop your biceps, you must have a sweet breath—not for the impression you will make at the office, but for the ten-strike you will make at the speakeasy and in the parlor. I was particularly struck by one advertisement which read in part, "He's still a lover in every way but one; he has gotten careless about shaving." Five years ago the faintest bristle on your chin, and you were a marked man at the bank, and the President used to say to the Vice-Presidents, "He's a good man in every way but one; he's careless about shaving." And four hundred voices answered, "You're right, J. B." and you were on your way out until your best friend told you. Today, it's your wife.

Well, it is a change for the better, since love (divinely given) is more entertaining than business, as business goes these days. Hereafter we will read the best books, use the nicest automatic lighters, wear suspenders, instead of belts, play pingpong, and eat imported caviar, and all the time we will know that we are progressing in the art of love, that we are certain to be loved, that love is ours. We shall be a happy country yet.

I Didn't Catch the Name

I was disappointed by ex-President Coolidge's declaration that he would support the present incumbent in the Presidency (whatever his name is, Mr. Coolidge seemed to say) for renomination. Not that I for a moment fancied that Mr. Hoover would not be renominated. I have heard the story of a Republican leader who consoles himself with the thought that if the election took place Monday, Mr. Hoover would carry Utah, anyhow; and as Bugs Baer puts it with his customary sardonic brilliance, Mr. Hoover is now sure of one vote. My disappointment comes from the suggestion that Mr. Coolidge not only does not want to run for President, but actually does not want to be President.

Raskob's Chance

I had a perfect scheme. That the Republicans had to nominate Hoover was certain; that the Democrats could beat him was promised to me by hundreds of people, the only catch being that the Democratic Party is credited with an inexhaustible capacity for making mistakes. Well, then, the obvious thing was to let the Republicans have Hoover, and then let the Democrats nominate Coolidge. What's wrong with that? All political observers say that Coolidge is the only man who could be certain to carry the country for the Republicans; how much more certain he is to carry it against the Republicans.

The nomination of Coolidge by the Democrats would be a graceful gesture and at the same time it would "take the election out of politics." Mr. Coolidge would be the first interparty candidate. And this, also, may be noted. Mr. Coolidge has, so far, refused only the Republican nomination. He implies that he does not want to be President, which disturbs me; but he hasn't said "absolutely." It's only the Republican nomination he puts away, like Caesar. Could Mr. Raskob persuade him?

A Childish Treble

I have often become quite childishly angry at "framed" news pictures in the movies. It is not that the framing does violence to the truth, only you know that when X is shaking hands with Y, it is a handshake for the pictures only; even elaborate stunts are staged before or after the actual event to make a better picture.

The proof of the badness of these pictures I got the other day, by seeing and hearing a fraction of reality. A boy of five had saved his little brother from a fire and the news-reels quite properly got pictures of the children. The elder, the hero, was as most children are in the pictures: the younger was almost a wail. And then—with the effect of a thunderclap on a sunny day—the elder brother did something which hadn't been rehearsed. He said, "Look, man, he's crying." It was more moving than ninety-nine out of a hundred feature pictures, this sudden accent of truth.

DRIVER HELD IN HIT-RUN CRASH

An alleged hit-and-run driver in a stolen car was captured by Chelsea police early today after a chase following a collision with a machine operated by Benjamin Aiman of 56 Harvard st., Malden.

He was Edward Collins, 23, of Main st., Lynn, charged with drunkenness, e

Lynn police said they would also charge Collins with the larceny of the auto, owned by Samuel Devitt of 29 Lewis st., that city.

With him was arrested Thomas E. Clancy, 24, of 112 Cottage st., Lynn, charged with drunkenness.

Watertown Man, 83, Blames Poverty for Rum Selling

A suspended sentence of three months in the house of correction was imposed in the Waltham court on John Fournier, 83, of Dexter st., Watertown, the oldest person ever arraigned in that court on a bootlegging charge.

Through his counsel, the aged man pleaded that his destitute circumstances prompted him to embark in the liquor business. His court appearance was the result of a raid on his home, in which eight pints of alcohol, 35 pints of beer, three gallons of wine, a quantity of mash and other bootlegging equipment were seized by the police.

2 'BABY KILLER' FOES SLAIN

New York, Oct. 8 (INS)—Underworld revenge for the betrayal of Vanni Coll's hiding place was hinted today for the murder of Willie Price and Edward Flannagan, reputed members of Vannie Higgs' rum running ring.

The bodies were found stuffed in burlap bags in an abandoned auto in Brooklyn. Both men had been strangled.

Meanwhile, Coll in Tombs Prison, charged with being one of the five Harlem "baby killers," said:

"Will never go to the chair."

Radio Waves Guide Tractor as Farmer Plows His Land

Noblesville, Ind., Oct. 8 (AP)—It may not be long now before farmers throughout the country will be doing their plowing by radio.

J. J. Lynch of Miles City, Mont., demonstrated this possibility by plowing around a 20-acre field with a tractor operated by radio.

Two hundred expert electricians, radio operators and business men said it was the first time in history that a tractor, so operated, had actually plowed ground.

The machine carried three 14-inch plows with a keyboard operated in an automobile 20 feet behind the tractor.

ADMIRAL RIGGS TALKS TO VETS

Paying a stirring tribute to the Red Cross, Rear Admiral Charles E. Riggs, Surgeon-General of the United States Navy, guest of honor at the Crosscup-Plahon Post luncheon at the Hotel Bradford today, traced its history and demonstrated its worth in peace time as well as war time.

Edward C. Edwards was installed as the new commander of the post. Paul V. Hines, retiring commander, was presented a purse of gold by John Crowley, installing officer.

Others installed today were Dan Harkins, chaplain, succeeding Charles O'Brien, and three new vice-commanders, George W. Bentley, Thomas A. Fitzgerald, Roland H. Baker.

EAGER THRONGS FLOCK COOKING SCHOOL

"I've never seen a more appreciative, intelligent audience at a cooking school than these New England Homemakers," said Mrs. J. Watson Shockley, speaking of the second huge throng of guests who yesterday crowded the grand ballroom of the Hotel Statler, at the Wednesday session of the Boston American's annual Cooking School.

"It's truly an inspiration to talk to such a receptive and appreciative audience, and I do hope that every one is enjoying the school as much as I am enjoying the privilege of sharing my recipes and homemaking ideas with them."

The ballroom of the Hotel Statler provides a perfect setting for the long-awaited annual cooking school. In this splendid room, seating 2000 people comfortably, some of Boston's most important social and business functions have been held.

SPEAKERS HEARD EASILY

One end of the grand ballroom is formed by the stage—as large as in many of our theaters. Richly curtained, with an exquisite background of pastoral scenes, and brilliantly lighted, this stage is ideally adapted to the perfect presentation of the cooking school.

Special loud-speaking devices make it possible for those sitting in the last rows to hear whispers perfectly, and the seating arrangements are such that all can see everything going on upon the stage, whether sitting in one of the boxes or in the "orchestra."

There is a special entrance to the ballroom on the Columbus ave. side of the Hotel Statler, or the ballroom may be approached through the balcony of the hotel lobby.

The doors open at 1 p. m., although the classes do not start until 2. But really an hour flits by all too quickly in such delightful surroundings, made more enjoyable by music.

As so often happens, the early comers enjoy the reward of the front seats. I do want to urge you all to come as near to 1 tomorrow as you conveniently can.

WINNERS OF AWARDS

Mrs. Shockley's demonstration yesterday included white cake, caramel icing, new chicken salad, fried carrots, coffee for one by the drip method, fish chowder and meringue pie.

Here is the list of major prize winners at yesterday's session and also the winners of the 25 gift market bags, which are given away at each session. This year two bags are presented to fortunate guests.

Major prize winners are:

Lynn Oil Burner—Lillian E. Clark, 240 Franklin st., Cambridge.

Twelve Sterling Silver Symphony Teaspoons—Mrs. J. Wiswell, 820 Third st., South Boston.

Hood's Ice Cream Cake—Mrs. James A. Miles, 46 Humboldt ave., Roxbury.

Flowers—Mrs. A. McNab, 31 Spaulding st., Jamaica Plain.

Three Pounds of Deerfoot Sausages—Miss Grace O'Donnell, 816 River st., Mattapan.

One Case of Moxie—Mrs. Hubert Holnahan, 43 Ferrier st., West Quincy.

One Chamberlain's Leatherette Comforter—Mrs. John H. Cronin, 33 Irving st., Malden.

One Case of Orange Dry—Mrs. Herbert Wurtzler, 820 East Fifth st., South Boston.

One Case of Fruit-cola Ginger Ale—Mrs. Jennie Shulman, 76 Plymouth st., Quincy.

Case—Mrs. Kathryn Mahoney, 15 Potts st., Charlestown.

The following women were awarded the 25 gift baskets filled with food products contributed by local merchants:

A. V. Regan, 11 Warren pl., Roxbury; Rose Cuney, 18 Alhambra st., Arlington; Mary Burnham, 78 South st., Medford; Mrs. Regena Card, 293 Harvard st., Cambridge; Mrs. Dora Carney, 14 Craven circle, Waltham; Mrs. A. A. Small, 11 Howe st., Dorchester; Mrs. Mary E. Cooney, 1167 Boylston st., Boston; Mrs. Annie Travis, 23 Granfield ave., Roslindale; Mrs. C. L. Crawford, 1412 Washington st., Roslindale; Maria Calligaris, 9 Bronsdon st., Brighton; Mrs. W. J. Colletti, 19 Wheatland st., Somerville; Annie K. Brown, 4 Adelaide ter., Jamaica Plain; Miss Mary E. Riley, 420 Gray st., Boston; Mrs. Edward J. Rich, 23 Hunter st., Dorchester; Mrs. H. Schleicher, 88 Grant st., Somerville; Mary E. Barrett, 21 Temple st., Boston; Lena Miller, 6 Castlegate rd., Boston; Mrs. M. Greene, 1101 Saratoga st., East Boston; Mrs. M. Hussey, 1722 Commonwealth ave., Brighton; Mrs. Bessie Hammill, 64 Hereward st., Boston; Mrs. W. J. Haverty, 1049 Washington st., Canton; Mrs. T. W. G. Wallace, 1711 Commonwealth ave., Brighton; Mrs. Ada M. Beal, 256 Bradstreet ave., Beachmont; and M. E. Manning, 703 3d st., South Boston.

Twenty-five similar baskets will be awarded at the two remaining sessions of the school.

ROXBURY WIFE WINS SET

We congratulate Mrs. S. J. Marshall of 15 Wardman st., Roxbury, winner of the beautiful Dinette Set, which was awarded her as a gift at the Boston American Cooking School. This set came from the Ferdinand Furniture Co. of Roxbury, Cambridge and Needham.

The dinette set, including a table and four chairs, is made of solid maple or solid mahogany. There are four box seat chairs to go with the set, which, by the way, is one of the nationally known "Dinah-Cook" sets, of finest workmanship.

Having been born in Roxbury, Ferdinand's was one of the first furniture stores with which I became acquainted as a little girl. Grandmother traded there, and my first impression of attractive furniture has become more firmly fixed.

Another major gift was the Eureka Vacuum Cleaner, awarded to Henrietta Cullen, of 18 Wenham st., Forest Hills, and we know that this splendid cleaner is going to make her housekeeping much easier. No doubt you have seen this latest Eureka Standard.

We can't blame you much for that, because this Eureka Standard is designed to do the work of a full-sized powerful cleaner of standard make. Martha Lee says she wouldn't know how to keep house without this electrical assistant.

CAKE MIXING IS EASY NOW

Do you remember how you and your brother and your sister and all the other members of the family took turns at helping mother mix sponge cakes? Sponge cake is just as good today as it was back in the days of our childhood, but how seldom we make it. Why? Because good sponge cake must be well beaten. The lucky woman who wins the Sunbeam Mixer which will be given by the C. F. Hovey Co. at the Martha Lee Cooking School at the Hotel Statler, will never have to struggle with a sponge again.

The Sunbeam Mixer is a sturdy, automatic beater which runs quietly and smoothly and which, without effort on the part of the user, mixes just about everything the housekeeper has had to mix by hand in the past.

B. C. Undergrads to Be Guests of Honor

Edward M. Gallagher, Jr., son of City Councillor Gallagher, president of the senior class at Boston College, today announced that following the Boston College-Fordham game a formal reception will be held Monday evening at the Bradford Hotel for members of the freshman class by the seniors.

CHILD THINKS IT CAN'T BREATHE

Danbury, Conn., Oct. 8 (INS)—Doctors attending Ruth Sturges, 9-year-old infantile paralysis sufferer, today sought some means of overcoming her "mechanical lung habit." Ruth, first Danbury child to be stricken with the disease, was placed in the respirator a month ago today. Her physicians said she might have been well two weeks ago were she free of the belief that her own lungs are useless. Each day the child has been taken from the respirator, and each time she has tried to be put back.

Physicians tried to defeat her dependence on artificial breathing by increasing little by little the natural "breathing spells," but without much success.

Tax Bills Sent Out

Property owners of Somerville will receive their tax bills today, and they have seven days to pay before interest will be charged. The tax rate is $30.60, an increase of $1.30 over 1930.

Symphony in Silver at Martha Lee School

How we all respond to the soft gleam of silver! Whoever sees the new "Symphony" pattern, just produced by Towle, must long to own it and now here may be your chance.

The Thomas H. Long Jewelry Company, at whose Summer st. windows most of us have lingered with longing eyes at some time or other, has just delighted us with news that they are going to give a dozen of the new "Symphony" sterling silver teaspoons as their offering to some lucky visitor at the Martha Lee Cooking School in the Hotel Statler.

The "Symphony" pattern is particularly lovely, with graceful, sweeping lines and of the slender fashion which so perfectly expresses the modern version of early American ideas.

Long's are among the first jewelers to stock this new Towle pattern, and we are particularly happy to be able to announce their gift of a dozen of these spoons.

Two Boston Ad Men Chosen for Officers

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 8 (AP)—Benjamin J. Sweetland of the Sweetland Advertising Agency, New York, was elected president of the Direct Mail Advertising Association at a meeting of the board of directors.

Leonard Raymond of Boston becomes a director and Frank L. Pierce, also of Boston, holds over as secretary-treasurer.

Lincoln's Own Story Is Willed to Public

San Jose, Cal. Oct. 8 (AP)—The original of a 500-word autobiography of Abraham Lincoln will be turned over to a public institution under the will of Miss Fannie Fell, who died in Los Gatos Sept. 24.

The will directs that the three-page manuscript be presented "to some public institution" where it will be well cared for "and made available to the people of the United States and especially to students of the life and times of Abraham Lincoln."

His spelling was awful
but his Eggs Polonaise are grand!

IN THE little hotel where I found this interesting recipe it was listed on the menu as Eggs a la Pollonaise. And the recipe I coaxed away from the chef was as complicated as his spelling. I simplified the name when I simplified the recipe.

But call it whatever you like—it's particularly appropriate for Sunday night suppers, and not too fussy for any day in the week. Deep fried in Crisco, it comes piping hot to the table as delicately flavored as this sweet fat it was fried in.

POLISH EGGS

6 eggs, beaten
½ cup grated cheese
1 teaspoon minced parsley
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 tablespoon cream
2 tablespoons Crisco (melted)
1¼ cups small bread dice
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Mix eggs, cheese, parsley, onion, seasoning, cream and melted Crisco. Add the diced bread. Drop by tablespoonfuls into hot, deep Crisco (360°-370° F., or when one-inch cube of bread browns in 60 seconds) and fry a light brown (about 2 minutes). Serve plain or with Tomato Sauce (1½ cups) or Tartar Sauce (1 cup).

If you've lost your recipe for SALMON CROQUETTES

Pink inside—brown outside—these salmon croquettes make my mouth water just to think of them! They make a delicious main dish—salmon and potatoes, well seasoned with chopped parsley to lend color and add flavor, wrapped in a golden crunchy coating that only frying in Crisco can give. Foods deep fried in Crisco always taste fresh flavored and good, for Crisco itself tastes sweet and fresh—and comes to you in an air-tight can.

1 cup salmon, canned or left-over, boiled
1¼ cups mashed potatoes
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon chopped onion
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

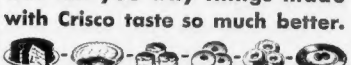
1 egg beaten with 1 tablespoon water
Dried bread crumbs

Mix ingredients thoroughly and shape into croquettes about the size of an egg—roll in dried bread crumbs, dip in egg, then in crumbs again. Fry in deep hot Crisco (390° F., or when an inch cube of bread browns in 40 seconds)—drain on unglazed paper. Serve plain, garnished with lemon rings or serve with cream sauce.

ALL MEASUREMENTS LEVEL. Recipes tested and approved by cooking authorities. Crisco is the registered trademark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Company.

©1931, P. & G. Co.

Taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor will tell you why things made with Crisco taste so much better.



In its new airtight can—as fresh and sweet as the day it was made

HOUSE OF MAGIC DESCRIBED BY CONNOLLY

New York, Oct. 8 (INS)—House of Magic [illegible] ...

The enterprise of these [illegible] takes one into the secret chambers of world diplomacy, past the flood-swept terror stricken west ... of China, Connolly said.

Then tells a tale of stark death, tense struggles of nations and of men, but [illegible] hope and adventure, then give you pearls of wisdom and of good cheer.

THRILLING PARADE

"All those in the foreground presentation part of the reporter's through which we get glimpses of peoples of the earth the picture of what happened today.

"You can see the whole turbulent parade through the glass windows of this office. Now you can see the newspaper of the world in the making. Twenty-two different newspapers in 20 different countries, great metropolitan dailies like the Hearst press printing 4,000,000 copies on Sunday, plus couples in cities in South Africa—the entire newspaper industry of the world awaits breathlessly every move of the operation which I record to start.

[illegible]

This is the magic of word wonders, word visions and word inspired thought. A newspaper reader for a few pennies, he said. It is the magic that surrounds every obstacle that might separate you from the drama of peoples, from the scenes of the great from the mysteries of life.

"It is the magic that gives you the gold of good choice of best edges of personal power of participation in life."

THIS IS LIFE

MORROW LEFT HERITAGE TO MANKIND IN HIS SIMPLE 'RULE 6'

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

ROBERT E. ROGERS

THE RADIO was playing

Life is just a bowl of cherries
Don't take it serious,
Don't get delirious." . . .

And in the day's newspapers were frequent references to the famous Rule No. 6 of Dwight W. Morrow: "Don't take yourself too darned seriously," which will probably now be always associated with his name. Only a few days ago the world lost Sir Thomas Lipton, who probably took seriously his job of supplying the world with tea, and who certainly took efforts to win the America's Cup seriously—at least to the extent of nearly a million dollars—but never took himself seriously.

Down in New York a college professor, probably not speaking ex cathedra, first insists that all whistlers are morons and then, flooded with letters, inclines to believe that if you whistle real tunes from the throat you may get by the censor even if your Binet test is negative and your I. Q. is low.

Serious About Some Things

But plain tuneless whistling, in which most of us indulge, is ruled out, no matter how much carefree satisfaction with life, as it is being lived for the moment, reveals. "He whistled as he went for want of thought," said Goldsmith, and that is enough for my learned colleague. They do not take themselves seriously.

And from the watch-towers of the Anti-Saloon League its chief watch-dog certainly does take himself and his cause too seriously to the extent of a formal vilification of the American Legion, pondered over, prepared and issued, which, later, he has to retract in part.

The little man who partnered Morgan's enterprises and helped steer Amherst College through its troublesome years and persuaded Mexico that we really did not intend to rob her of everything she owned and who "didn't like Anne's flying a bit"—the little man who was neighbors with everybody had it right. He didn't mean that we shouldn't take ideas and causes seriously. He took neighborliness seriously enough to give up a great financial career to go into the difficult and tiresome and thankless work of diplomacy. He took Prohibition seriously enough to go even into the Senate in the hope of fighting it effectively, which, for a man of his temper, must have been about the limit of self-sacrifice. But he apparently did not take himself seriously.

Shakespeare says somewhere:

"There are a sort of men, whose visages
Do cream and mantle like a standing pond,
And do a willful stillness entertain,
With purpose to be dressed in an opinion
Of wisdom, gravity, profound conceit,
As who should say: I am Sir Oracle,
And when I ope my lips let no dog bark!"

When One Should Feel Small

That, I take it, is what Dwight Morrow meant. He mean' that tremendous preoccupation with the nobility of one's cause, that refusal to hear anything against one's pet idolatry, that self-love which will not bear criticism, which is all too common among us Americans.

Samuel Butler, author of "Erewhon" and "The Way of All Flesh," used to insist what man needed was a certain Laodiceanism, as he called it, a certain ability not to take anything, least of all one's self, too seriously. It is a certain ability to see one's self as others see you, even to say to yourself, with Emerson, "Why so hot, my little man?" when your antagonists bear down on you too hard and you feel that in your own insulted dignity something cosmic is affronted.

One of the characteristics that saved Lincoln from himself, and incidentally probably saved the nation, was his ability to refuse to stand on dignity when his detractors were barking at his heels. Seward and Stanton, who were always at him, delegations of visiting pacifists, copperheads, abolitionists, clergymen, and others who were perfectly sure that they knew the will of God, he met with a joke—sometimes a blue one—or a funny story or a bit from Artemus Ward.

One learns with something of disquiet, from the people who specialize in political gossip, that Mr. Hoover has not that power, that he is, indeed, a bit too accustomed to take himself too seriously and to resent even impersonal and legitimate criticism.

Lookers-on at courtroom scenes have been reported as being surprised and shocked to see two lawyers, who have been fighting tooth and nail before the judge, link arms and walk off together to lunch as court is adjourned. Their behavior has been called insincere, callous, even a betrayal of the causes in which they are engaged. Nothing of the sort, of course! They take their causes seriously enough, but they do not take themselves seriously. We seldom hear of a clergyman human enough to hob-nob with those whom he believes, probably sincerely enough, to be the enemies of his own pet causes. Yet we are told that his Master moved freely and in friendly fashion among Publicans and the Sinners, Scribes and Pharisees.

William James was wont to speak of "tender-minded" and "tough-minded" people. He meant by the former the folks who stand so on their own intellectual and moral dignity that even friendly criticism of their causes or of themselves hurts them. They are tender, they wince and bleed. They withdraw themselves from controversy and criticism. They will not argue. They pontificate. And when their pet ideal seems to be threatened, they speak vitriol. Their opponents are unholy. The arguments of their critics are trashy, dishonest, sold and paid for. They do more harm than good to their cause.

And why? Because they have forgotten Dwight Morrow's Rule No. 6. Don't take yourself too darned seriously! And they have forgotten that the Truth is no monopoly of sect or party or cause. No legacy of Dwight Morrow's is more lasting in importance than those six pithy words.

QUOTES LAST YEAR'S

Referring to the Edison company, Mulhern's letter says that for 1930 "in spite of many heart aches for the average person in the community," the gross revenue reached the vast sum of $30,412,000 and that the net operating profit reached the "amazing figure of $12,880,000. Also that the dividends went to $7,221,000, almost half the total gross revenue of the company only a few years before.

[illegible]

"Where did the other $23,000,000 come from? Out of the pockets of the consuming public," the letter reads, and continues: "On of every dollar of gross revenue taken in during 1930 only 12 cents went for operating expenses.

"Notwithstanding the fact that it was only a small increase in gross revenue," he says, "the net operating revenue for 1930 showed an increase of 36 per cent over 1925." 'KIKI' ROBERTS READY TO GIVE UP IN 'LEGS' DIAMOND CASE

'KIKI' VERY MUCH ALIVE

"KIKI" ROBERTS MRS. STRASMICK

While Mrs. Grace Strasmick was declaring her belief that her daughter, Marion, known on stage as "Kiki" Roberts, sweetheart of Jack "Legs" Diamond, was dead or held captive by gangsters, the girl herself was quoted in a New York interview as ready to surrender to police. (Staff photos.)

EX-SHOW GIRL BELIEVED DEAD BY MOTHER

Eager to Phone Home and Return to Broadway, She Is Quoted as Saying

Marion ("Kiki") Roberts of Roxbury, former showgirl sweetheart of Jack ("Legs") Diamond, in New York today was ready to give herself up to authorities who had searched for her unsuccessfully for months

In Boston her mother, Mrs Grace Strasmick of Dartmouth st., South End, refused to believe it, declaring she believed Marion hed been killed by gangsters

But the red-headed will o' the wisp was very much alive and telling newspapermen

"I'm tired of reading about my tragic death at the hands of gangsters, tired of hearing that I turned Diamond over to the police.

"I'm tired of staying away from Broadway. I'm ready to walk up to the authorities and say, 'Here I am, what do you want of me.' I am innocent and want to get it over with."

"MUST FACE TRIAL"

Atty. Gen. Bennett of New York who, like Kiki's mother still believe it true that she said to appeared alive and ready to surrender, said when she did surrender she would have to face trial for conspiracy in the torturing of Grover Parks, beer truck driver

Legs" Diamond was acquitted on this charge but one of his was convicted. Asked why she stayed so long, during Diamond's trial and after, the former Roxbury girl said

"I stayed away because I knew there were a lot of people wanting publicity wanting to advertise themselves by putting me up as a target in court. I just didn't intend to be used that way.

"If they can get into the headlines, all right; but I don't intend to let them use my name as a way of getting there.

"There are two things I'm looking forward to when all this trouble is over. The first is being able to call up my mother and family or visit her without thinking that some of Mr. Bennett's men are going to arrest me. The second is, getting back to Broadway

TO SEE ZIEGFELD

"I'm a dancer. I like dancing, and just as soon as all this is over, I'll be singing Mr. Ziegfeld's and Mr. Carroll's doorbells. A vacation is all right, but too much is enough."

In an exclusive interview to the Boston Evening American the mother of the former Roxbury girl insisted her daughter had either been killed by gangsters or was being held captive in Detroit she might think

HATES DIAMOND

Mrs Strasmick stated she was sure she would have heard from her daughter before this time if she was not dead or being held against her will. She said she was sure her daughter, who was ready to come back here with her when she disappeared certainly did not return willingly to Diamond

"I hate that Diamond," Mrs. Strasmick said. "He caused all this trouble and he has made me a nervous wreck. I had a premonition last night that something would happen and I have been thinking of it today. It was just a year ago that Diamond was shot in New York.

"He never let my daughter alone and even followed her to Chicago, going there by plane just to see her again after I broke up their friendship.

KIDNAPED, SHE SAYS

"The last I saw of her was on April 6 when she had her trunk packed and was ready to come to Boston with me. Then she vanished and I certainly think she was kidnaped. She never went back to him willingly."

Former Judge Daniel H. Pryor, who defended Diamond, said last night he had not been asked by the notorious gangster to defend his sweetheart in case she was tried. He added the statement she would surrender was "interesting" and that he would "get bus) today.

Signor Mezzolin, acting on information, inspected them closely from some intimate friends, even had photographs made of them, and then ordered them put under lock and key not to be viewed by anyone. But here's a tip: When you visit the Pompeii ruins call the chief guide in charge aside and hand him about a quarter's worth of lira and he'll show them to you after making you take a solemn oath that you won't tell a soul.

HOW TO KEEP HUSBANDS AT HOME NIGHTS

By HELEN ROWLAND

Woman is "on the GO!" Woman has always been "on the go" when she had the time, the money and the liberty. And now that there are no bars on the doors and windows, no large breeds of babies clinging to her skirts, and nothing but a can opener to hold her to the kitchen, woman is proving that it is SHE, not man, who is the restless sex!

HELEN ROWLAND

When Father takes the car out, it is because he wants to reach the office, the club or the golf links. It's always Mother who says: 'Oh, let's go for a DRIVE!' Some there and there just to see the scenery going.

A man doesn't like to have things changed or moved. He wants to find the same hour in the same place every night and is hurt if you even turn the cushion to hide the worn place. Any suggestion of any sort about the home upsets him.

A woman eats a new hat every few weeks and new shoes every few months, but a man will sit up in a moth-eaten rag and sweater until they fall apart in his hands. A woman is always eager to make new friends, but a man hates to go even to a party where he will meet strange people.

Ernst Finds Bethke in Trouble

ADOLF IS GLOOMY

"Adolf," I exclaim happily. "Didn't you hear me?" Asleep, was you?

I thought I'd come over and see you. Old pal.

"Hullo, Ernst," he says dully. "Something the matter, Adolf?" I ask in surprise.

"Why don't ask, Ernst."

I sit down beside him. "But Adolf old man, what's the matter with you?"

He says: "Nothing. I'm all right. I'm used to it alone, Ernst, can't help it. It's good though. It's good you came. It's been a long time. It stands to reason. It makes a man crazy. Long, alone here like this."

FAMILY ESTRANGED

"Good health, Adolf."—Good health Ernst."

They come here and I'm my people and her people—and they don't understand me. And I don't understand them. It is as if we weren't the same persons any more. It's pretty hard to bear, Ernst, and I am—but with these people, it's as if there were a stone wall between us."

WIFE CONFESSES

He suspects nothing. "Did I frighten you?" he asks, laughing.

"Yes," she says nervously.

"That will soon pass, Marie," he answers, trembling in his excitement. Now at last that he is here again in the room, his whole being is trembling. Long has been away from it so long, too long.

"I didn't know you were coming so soon, Adolf," says his wife now, standing with her back to the cupboard and gazing at him with great wide eyes. For an instant something cold suddenly grips him; it takes his breath away. "Aren't you even a little bit glad, then?" he asks awkwardly.

"Yes, Adolf, of course—"

"Has something happened?" he goes on, still holding all his traps in his hand.

AFFAIR WITH MAN

"Yes," she says, and then she still has a monkey on her arm, speaks. He loosens it and starts to unpack. He is trembling. He keeps trying to control himself. "It can't be," he says to himself. "It can't be." He goes on unpacking, merely to have to be busy. He takes out the red silk, and still nothing of what has happened sinks into his skull.

But she is speaking and she is crying. He is doing to her. Adolf, Adolf, I'm sorry, I'm sorry. Oh, I'm sorry. Oh, I'm sorry. Oh

IRISH VS. WILDCATS FOR A SHILELAH

Not saying a word about Pepper Martin today. That guy speaks for himself!

Will Yale go marching through Georgia, or Georgia go marching through Yale?

Well, thoughts of the impending conflict have Rilling looking real pale. Four times have the Crackers from Georgia come knocking on Old Eli's door

And durned if those divils from Dixie didn't cop three games out of four!

Georgia has three victories in four years over Yale. The boys from Dixie hope to make it four out of five on Saturday. Last year the Georgians won on a disputed run from a recovered kick. The Georgians come north with only two men missing from the same aggregation that rolled the Blue in the dust of defeat last year. Tassaponios and Maffett are missing from the line, but the celebrated "Catfish" Smith is back with the bells on. Eli Yale isn't going to have any pink tea on Saturday. If we were not planning on watching Holy Cross and Dartmouth having it out up there in the blue hills of New Hampshire there's no place we'd rather would be on Saturday than in the Yale bowl when "Catfish" and Albie peel off their coats and go to it.

What may be Notre Dame's toughest game of the season confronts them next Saturday. But no college ever had greater incentive to win. Up there in the Valhalla where all true warriors go, old "Rock" himself will be cheering them on. If Rock's boys win over Northwestern this Saturday they will break their straight string victory record of 20 games, made in 1919-20-21 and equalled last Saturday when they beat Indiana. They will be playing for the shilelah donated by President William T. Cosgrove of the Irish Free State. The Irish leader put it up last year. Notre Dame holds it and will strive to keep it. It is a splendid Irish blackthorn, carved with shamrocks and inscribed with "Notre Dame-Northwestern Trophy—Presented by William T. Cosgrove—1931." And Notre Dame and Northwestern will be playing for charity. Unlike some of our great eastern institutions Notre Dame is not too proud to play for charity.

Speaking of charity football, hats off to B. C., H. C. and Mayor Curley! May their shadow never grow less! If there is a sellout and there should be at the Thanksgiving Day duel between the Eagles and Crusaders in the Stadium, the unemployed of Boston will profit to the tune of more than $75,000. The two colleges have donated 25,479 of the $3.00 seats to Mayor Curley's unemployment fund.

Northwestern has a great team this year. There are more "Fighting Irish" on the Wildcats than there are on the "Fighting Irish" themselves. Notre Dame has a pronounced edge in the series, winning nine out of eleven games. The Wildcats won 2 to 0, way back in 1901 and held the South Benders to a scoreless tie in 1903. The last few years the Notre Dame-Northwestern duels have been classics. In 1924 the Four Horsemen squeezed through with a 13 to 6 victory with the help of Ralph "Moon" Baker's two field goals. Northwestern led by 10 points at the half in 1925, but in the second half Rex Enright twice crashed through the Northwestern front for touchdowns and Notre Dame won 13 to 10. Only Art Parisien's left handed pass gave Notre Dame a 6 to 0 triumph in the closing minutes of play in 1926. Last year Northwestern held Notre Dame scoreless for 54 minutes, only to crack and be struck by a Notre Dame cyclone which did not subside until the South Benders had won 14 to 0.

Neither Jim Browning nor Johnny Spellman is a champion but they are two of the most spectacular grapplers in the game. They should furnish a knockdown and dragout affair which will warm the cockles of the hearts of the fans who will throng to the Arena tonight to see Paul Bowser's opening wrestling show of the season. Browning is a master of the "turn over sussors." The way the Missouri farmer juggles his opponents with his feet and legs would make a Japanese juggler turn green with envy. Spellman is a courteous, refined college man, but you never would think so to look at him. When he comes on the mat he looks like a cave man and wrestles like one. On with the shindy! Let joy be unrefined!

Jack Sharkey punched the head off Joe Sekyra in a training bout. That indicates the Squire is boxing in great form again. It may mean that Jack will fight a long range fight against Carnera, staying away from the Italian giant and gradually wearing him down. Your humble observer, however, still believes that the only way Sharkey can beat Carnera is to go into a low crouch and keep blazing away for the Man Mountain's ribs. At the very start Sharkey might take a chance at reaching the giant's jaw, but after that he should settle into a crouch and play for the body—body—body!

In all the talk of next Saturday's Dartmouth-Holy Cross, Yale-Georgia, Harvard-N. H. and Notre Dame-Northwestern games you don't lose next Monday's Boston College vs. Fordham duel in the shuffle. The gridiron battle between the Eagles and the Maroon has come to be one of New England's football classics. The Columbus Day shindy between the two great rivals should be a heart breaker. Major Cavanaugh apparently has welded together another great Fordham eleven. One couldn't get much of a line on it in the Catholic University and Dayton games. But from the start that could be had Joe McKenny has his boys playing some great football and they may turn the Maroon tide.

Speaking of Fordham, it looks as if Joe Bonitski had landed the regular end berth. There was some doubt about Joe's ability to snare forward passes, but the last few days in practice he was leaping in the air and pulling 'em down in great fashion. Joe is one of three Greenfield boys playing for Fordham. Phil Murphy, halfback, and Connie Murphy, tackle, are the other two Maroon players from the little town up there in the Berkshires. There's scarcely a college team in this country which hasn't one or more Bay State boys playing on it. Didja ever stop to think what a bumper football crop New England raises?

From old New England's hills they go, to every college hall,
You'll find 'em scattered far and wide, where'er they hunt the ball,
New England's soil is rocky, mayhap, and farming here's a flop—
But where, oh where, in this broad land, is such a football crop?

CARDS' HERO STABBED BY SHOWER

Special Dispatch to the AMERICAN

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—"I was taking a quick shower after yesterday's game," he explained, "and suddenly I felt something sting my ear. I put my hand up and there was blood. Doc Weaver, the trainer, looked at it and what do you think he said?

"'You got stabbed by one of the needles in the shower.' 'Did you ever hear anything as silly as that?'"

By BILL SLOCUM

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—If Master Pepper Martin wasn't only like finding cash for a dollar sometimely, he might be the spotlight character of the current World Series to date. He's about to get a ticket to ride on the Master Martin express, and he's going to be the guy who has the most to say about how far it will go. Martin's name will go in baseball history as the player who has contributed more individual thrills to a World Series than any other player in baseball history since Mathewson struck out the Mighty Ruth in the first game of the 1926 series.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, a pair of mighty sluggers, have played in World Series aplenty, but neither of them has ever done a thing that will ever be remembered as much as this fleet-footed Cardinal outfielder has done in the first two games of this series.

So far in the series the Cardinals have scored a total of 16 runs and Martin has figured in 11 of these tallies.

Play Monopolized by Pepper Martin

There has been nothing quite like, as far as monopolizing the play by an individual, in World Series history.

Martin has stolen bases, batting the ball and scoring the runs as well as any one player could do in one game, but he has contributed the best work ever made by a World Series hitter. Charley Hollocher's batting mark of .625 in the 1918 series between the Giants and Red Sox, and Joe Jackson's mark of .500 in the 1919 series between the White Sox and Reds, will be safe from Martin's attack.

In 1915 Sam Rice of the Washington Senators batted .500 in the series, but he played in six games, and Martin has had only two games in which to do his batting. Furthermore, Rice batted .500 in the first game, but Martin has yet to get a hit in the opening game of the series.

Now comes the world series, after a fast week of baseball, to see if Martin can keep up his batting pace. If he does, he will be the first player to get a hit in five games. If he does get a hit in the fifth game Martin will set a mark which will stand for all time, for it is unlikely that any player will ever get a hit in six games of a world series.

A's Are Now Backed Against Wall

The Athletics have had their backs against the wall today and it will take a powerful comeback to keep the honors which they have won quite easily in each of the past two years. They cannot get the edge on the Cards in three games on their home lot which is the case with Hallahan and apparently there is no escape.

Burleigh Grimes is waiting to pitch against them again at St. Louis tomorrow, and Paul Derringer, who made them look quite foolish at times in the first game, is also being primed for another whirl against the A's.

Peabody, Beverly Teams Tilt Sunday

A large crowd is expected at the Peabody high field Sunday, when the University of Peabody plays the Beverly Pros in the first major contest of the season for both teams.

Peabody has strengthened its lineup for the coming game by the addition of Dick Ardizi, Fred Medlow and Joe Dolan, all of whom saw the outstanding lineups on the Dubuque team last year, at left, center and right end, respectively.

Ardizi, who was a team up with Dick Rice with whom he played in the Tufts backfield for three years.

Tilden and Hunter Are Sailing for Paris

New York, Oct. 8. (AP)—The steamship Berengaria left New York harbor for Europe early today carrying William T. Tilden, II., professional tennis champion, and Francis T. Hunter, another player and New Rochelle newspaper publisher, to Paris matches. They plan to meet Karel Kozeluh and Albert Burke, professional stars.

The ship also carried $13,500,000 in gold to the Paris branch of the Guaranty Trust Company.

FRANK FRISCH PEPPER MARTIN

Pepper Martin cut himself another large slice of World Series fame by hitting a homer yesterday with Frankie Frisch on base in the sixth inning. Martin drove in four Card runs. He was the cog in the St. Louisans' 10-1 victory. Now the Cards lead in the series, 3 to 2. Tomorrow the teams play in St. Louis.

HARVARD LOSES END

RADIO SALUTES ARCTIC

RED RECORD OUT OF N. H. CONFLICT

The loss of Red Record, first string Harvard wingman, left a gaping hole for Eddie Casey to fill today.

Examinations Slow Down Harvard Attack

Because most of the Harvard regulars are taking senior examinations, the attack of the Crimson football machine was slowed down considerably yesterday.

Percy Wood, Jack Crowell and Jack Hubbard, all of whom had only two more examinations to take, were excused from practice.

Ted Russell appeared in the Stadium yesterday for the first time since he received a broken rib in the second game of the season. Russell, Captain Bill Hewitt and Jack Hubbard are the only regulars who will be in uniform when the Crimson meets the Army at Yankee Stadium next Saturday.

Coach Dick Harlow will have a chance to see the Army backfield in action when the Cadets meet Yale at the Polo Grounds next Saturday. Harlow will be accompanied by Coach Jack Crowell and Trainer Bill Reed.

Coach Crowell and Trainer Reed will leave for New York this afternoon. Harlow will remain in Cambridge to work with the varsity squad.

Loss of N. H. Star Weakens Wildcats

Minus Sid Hall, the Casey men will go through their second siege against Tufts. New Hampshire comes into the Cousens Oval game with a record of three victories and no defeats to its credit.

Hall, who was injured in the Maine game, will be unable to play against the Jumbos. Hall made a name for himself as a ground gainer in the Maine game.

Jack Crowell and Trainer Bill Reed have not had much opportunity this week to justify their recent promotions to the "A" team backfield with Capt. Barry Wood and Percy White.

Crowell should show his ability against New Hampshire next week. Some sore necks, taking the place of Johnny Dewan, will show part of the backfield duties.

Vermont Coaches Working With Line

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 8.—In University of Vermont practice Coaches Dunn and Lavine devoted their entire attention to the line. The grid instructors plan to center activities in that group until improvement has been shown.

Punts and Passes

By the Associated Press

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—They'll start calling him "Nine Yards Holley" pretty soon. Alabama's crack halfback, Hillman Holley, has gained a total of 244 yards from scrimmage in the Crimson tide's first two games of the year. He has carried the ball 37 times for an average gain of slightly more than nine yards.

Washington, D. C.—Georgetown met a great opponent in Notre Dame in the person of Johnny Sexer, but an adequate successor has been found in Dick King, a junior from Union City, N. J., who did his playing in the final quarter of the game with Western Maryland that was called with the ball in the Hoyas' possession on the Terrapins' 1-foot line, it is known today.

New York.—Pete Pund and Carl Snaugh at Fordham. He has four tackles so good that he has been allowing around all week trying to determine which pair to use against Boston College Monday.

Princeton, N. J.—Rutgers and Princeton played the first game of intercollegiate football in the country in 1869, but nowadays they meet only in practice scrimmages. The Scarlet team from New Brunswick gave the Tigers a good workout yesterday, but there was no doubt that Princeton dominated play.

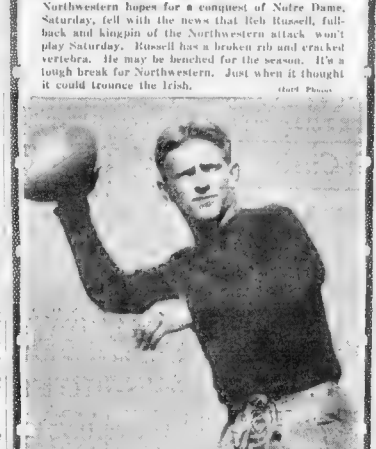
West Point, N. Y.—Army's kickers of points after touchdown have had plenty of practice in the first two games of the year, in which the Cadets have scored 19 touchdowns, but Coach Biggs still is not satisfied. He had Stecker, Herb and Carver booting them over in a long drill yesterday.

Philadelphia.—Another experiment drawn at Penn has failed to work. Howard Colehaus, shifted from tackle to center, has gone back to his old post. His passing failed to come up to the expectations of Coach Harvey Harman.

New Haven, Ct.—Just a little more light on how important Yale-Georgia games have become in the last few years. The Yale Athletic Association's estimate of Saturday's crowd is 80,000.

SPORTS REEL

Northwestern hopes for a conquest of Notre Dame, Saturday, fell with the news that Reb Russell, full-back and kingpin of the Northwestern attack won't play Saturday. Russell has a broken rib and cracked vertebra. He may be benched for the season. It's a tough break for Northwestern. Just when it thought it could trounce the Irish.



Aarne Frigard, Maynard boy who is one of the Big Green backfield aces, has his throwing arm limbered up for that game with Holy Cross at Hanover on Saturday. Frigard will try to entertain the Crusaders with an exhibition of plain and fancy tossing. Maybe the H. C. boys will take advantage, and intercept some McNamara, who was born and raised in Somerville, has appeared in the ring but a few times, but is engaged in coaching at Washington, D. C., universities. Before he turned professional he was a star halfback at Somerville High and Tufts, Rossini, and Tom Drask, Hollander.

A broadening of the tax base is suggested by one writer. The Magazine of Wall Street economist argues:

"It is proper that the heaviest taxes should be imposed upon the wealthy, but every citizen should pay some tax. If it is only $1 a year it gives him a direct financial interest in the operations of his government."

EAGER BUYING BRINGS GAINS IN WALL ST.

New York, Oct. 8—Eager buying, mostly in late trading, brought some good gains in Wall St. dealings today. The advance began quietly but gained momentum toward the close.

Advances of 4 to 6 points were numerous, while Auburn shot up more than 15.

SOME GOOD GAINS

Share leaders rising 4 to 6 points included U. S. Steel, North American, American Telephone, Woolworth, American Can, Atchison, du Pont, New Haven and New York Central sales exceeded 2,500,000 shares.

Steady progress in the setting up of the half-billion-dollar corporation to thaw out frozen credits in financial institutions appeared already to have removed the chief source of unsettlement.

Stocks moved steadily ahead, after a momentary sag in the morning, and the bond market again attracted good investment buying, although trading was quiet.

Virtually all important groups moved forward in the share market and a sizable moderate losses were more than regained.

The New York traction issues showed some strength in response to rumors of progress toward unification.

Brokers reported that strong buying was steadily coming into stocks, although there was a tendency to place orders under the market in the hope of catching temporary setbacks. Several brokers freely expressed the opinion that the bottom had been seen, although many were inclined to wait and see.

ODD LOT BUYING

Commission houses with extensive wire systems reported that odd lot buying from the public was beginning to appear from offices throughout the country, giving tangible evidence of the restoration of confidence. Some said the odd lot business was the best in a long time.

The prospect of the setting up of another pool, in addition to the Credit Corporation, to aid building and real estate, received considerable attention, although bankers were without information as to prospective plans.

Business and trade news was meager. General Motors Corp. reported September sales of 'omnibers of 51,740 cars, as reduced from 62,667 in August, but September sales to retailers were only 47,505, indicating a further shrinkage in dealer stocks, in preparation for new models to come toward the end of the year.

With dealers' stocks low and expectations that a considerable accumulation of deferred buying will finally be executed, the prospect of the early months of next year is viewed hopefully.

The cotton crop report as of Oct. 1, indicating the large gain of 590,000 bales over the estimate as of Sept. 1, was received with unusual calmness by the cotton market, although a moderate decline naturally ensued.

Procter & Gamble Business Growing

Procter & Gamble Company have just started operation of their new soap and edible products at Long Beach, Cal., the buildings for which were designed and constructed by Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation. This newest development was made necessary by the rapid growth of Procter & Gamble business all over the country and particularly on the West Coast.

The plant covers 15 acres of ground and includes complete facilities for the preparation of Ivory, Camay, P & G Naphtha Soap, Ivory Flakes, Chipso and Crisco. Buildings are of concrete in harmony with the Spanish architecture of the Southwest.

COOK-COOS

By TED COOK

Spanish Socialist plans to submit a bill prohibiting makers of playing cards from including a king in the deck on the ground that it reminds people of royalty.

And it'll be swell if he can do something about tea-room chicken a la king.

What-a-Man No. 34567

This is Mozart Mandelbaum, night club orchestra conductor, who is being recommended for the Nobel Prize in philosophy. Instead of using gilt derbies to mute brass instruments, Mandelbaum had the horns filled with solder. He has steadfastly refused to pay the slightest attention to requests for the tenor to sing "Mary Happy Returns of the Day-aye," and he recently sprinkled ashes on the slide trombone.

Be that as it may, it took Rudy Vallee to demonstrate that the horn of plenty is a megaphone.

SLASH IN DOLE HITS MILLIONS

London, Oct. 8 (AP)—British workers who actually work and those who don't will go home to their "high tea" tomorrow night with extra fewer pence in their pockets than on their last payday.

For Friday is both the British payday and dole distribution day, and this week the new dole rates are in effect.

Three cents, or 6 cents, more will be deducted from the wages of some 9,000,000 workers to help pay for the dole. Even more will be missing from the seven shillings handed over the counter to the unemployed.

The housemaid and the farm hand will be unaffected. But the waitress and the mill hand will feel the latest pinch in the government's economy campaign.

Football Player Better

The condition of Paul McCombs of Oklahoma, Thursday's injured football player who was injured during scrimmage Tuesday, has improved at Quincy City Hospital.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Mr. N. T. Julian, 117 Harriston St., Roxbury, Mass., says:—"I suffered great pain in my stomach and could not digest food. I had taken all kinds of medicine without relief. Finally I was persuaded by a physician, but got no permanent relief. Then I called on Dr. D. J. Walsh. He said that she had suffered much as I did and I was sure that he had given her permanent relief. So I had Dr. Walsh treat me. He made me well. I gave him permit the publication of this testimonial hoping it may be helping others who suffer as I did."

Record-Breaking Crowd

Splendid Women, Modern Ideas

ENTHUSIASTIC WOMEN PACK MARTHA LEE SCHOOL

An interesting institution—the Boston Evening American Cooking School, conducted by the industrious, amiable Martha Lee.

The news columns tell us the grand ballroom of the Hotel Statler was crowded to its capacity by eager, interested women an hour before the school convened, and the balconies were opened to accommodate the throng.

It was a record-breaking throng of splendid women.

Interested not in the search for personal glory and prestige. But in the simple art of making home life attractive to the families for which they are responsible.

What a fine contrast! In these days when frail man stumbles and gropes through business uncertainties, these women set themselves to a high ideal. And go about to achieve it, without halting, excuse or cavil.

"They looketh well to the ways of the household and eateth not the bread of idleness."

Robert Burton wrote, in 1600:

"Cookery has become an art, a noble science."

And Sheridan, a century ago, proposed a solemn, affectionate toast to the housewife who enthrones happiness and contentment in her home.

In that toast, we all acquiesce.

A community possessed of these women intent upon making family life the comfortable circle it was intended to be can count itself fortunate indeed.

The school continues today and tomorrow afternoons.

Pro and Con Beer

Beer drinkers, more often than not, are Christians, declares a clergyman at the Church Conference at Oxford. He says:

"There often is more Christianity in a bar parlor of a public house on Sunday morning than there is in the church, because men in a public house have a sense of comradeship over their beer which the people in the church lack."

Some quite eminent Christians—Dean Inge, Belloc and Chesterton, for example—drink beer. But they will be the first to doubt that clergyman. They will admit that their beer drinking has nothing to do, one way or another, with their conception of God. Christianity does not have to depend on hops and barley to keep going.

To drink beer implies no great villainy, though Dr. Clarence True Wilson thinks it does, and says so with such uproar that he becomes a nuisance.

All this furore over beer drinking recalls a question that agitated humans in the eighteen-nineties: "Can a man play a cornet and be a Christian?" The best answer was: "Yes; but his riled neighbor can't."

League Court Partiality

Because the League Court made a bad decision in the Austro-German customs union case, the United States should hurry into the court on the slim prospects of improving the tribunal.

This is the argument of the Cincinnati Enquirer. At the same time, however, the Enquirer advances reasons AGAINST U. S. MEMBERSHIP. Its editorial on the League Court decision said:

"Unmistakably, there is evidence here of Judges voting in terms of the interests of their own nations. . . .

"This cannot fail to be something of a blow to the prestige of the World Court. But assuming that approximate justice is better than hard-fisted national force, and that an International Court is desirable, the need is clearly for active American participation. This at least would lend a greater impartiality to the Court and a greater weight to its decisions."

The Enquirer's idea is that the United States would protect the League Court's "independence from outside pressures."

But what becomes of the INDEPENDENCE OF THE UNITED STATES under the pressure of League Court politics?

Boston May Get Big Plane

There is being completed at Bridgeport an airplane that will carry forty passengers, with baggage, food, a salon and other appurtenances of modern, convenient transportation.

The comforts of surface riding are to be carried de luxe into the air.

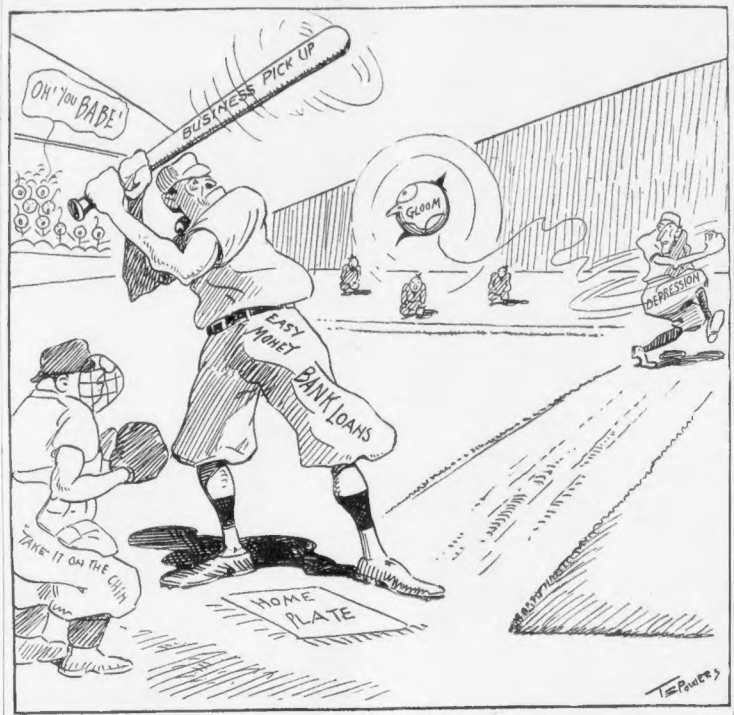
This first plane, one of the largest ever constructed for regular commercial service in the United States, will be christened by President Hoover, after which it will be put into operation between Miami and Havana.

A second plane of the same huge type may be installed regularly between Boston and Halifax.

We hope so. Not for the refreshments that can be obtained in Cuba and Canada which are prohibited by law here. But as a symbol of New England's mechanical and inventive genius.

We have in New England the skilled artisans of the world. High finance, with banks bulging with idle money, owes it to New England to give these expert workmen the chance to show their skill.

Over the Fence -:- -:- By T. E. Powers



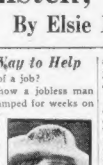
Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Here's a Way to Help

EVER OUT of a job?

Ever wonder how a jobless man feels who has tramped for weeks on an empty stomach, in broken shoes?



Elsie Robinson

You're going to meet hundreds of such men this winter. Not "professional loafers" or beggers. Decent fellows, who've never tramped before, whom you'll want to help. But how?

Marshall Maslin, editorial writer of the SAN FRANCISCO CALL-BULLETIN, knows how these men feel and how they can best be helped. He told about it in an editorial which he's letting me use. Listen—

"Do you know what happens to men who can't get work and have no homes, who walk the streets and stand on corners, and are known to their more secure fellow-citizens merely as privates in the great army of the unemployed?

"They get sick.

"They eat at soup kitchens. If there are soup kitchens in existence. They pick up a little money here and there, at odd jobs, desperately, by begging. They sleep out or in poor rooms. They eat badly. They eat bread, beans, doughnuts and coffee.

"And they get sick.

"Bread and beans and doughnuts and coffee are all good things but they cannot make up a whole diet for any man. The man who walks the street looking for a job, or just to do something, should also be eating green stuff—tomatoes, lettuce, apples and oranges—but he'd laugh bitterly if you advised him to do that. He ought to have vitamins in his diet but he doesn't get them.

"So he gets sick.

"He is worried, underclothed, undersheltered and undernourished. The strain is too much for his spirit and his flesh and he breaks down at the weakest point. He begins to suffer from boils, carbuncles, abscesses. He can not work then, even if somebody gives him a job, but he is not sick enough to go to the charity wards of the hospitals, already crowded. He goes to a clinic for treatment, and as the doctor dresses his wounds he tells the man he should have orange juice, tomato juice, and should be in bed. The man laughs and asks, "How am I to get them?" The doctor shrugs his shoulders. What can HE do? He could only give the man a couple of dollars, but that's just ONE man, and there will be many of them in just that condition now. But what can be done for such men?"

Here's what can be done. They're doing it successfully in San Francisco, through the CALL-BULLETIN, as Marshall Maslin proceeds to tell. Certain people heard of these thousands of "ambulatory patients" who are not sick enough for hospitals but desperately in need of a few nights' rest, some cod liver oil, orange and tomato juice. Weren't there rest wards where one could send such men? No. How about building or renting a big barracks—filling it with beds—hiring a caretaker? All too expensive. But there must be something—

There was. They found that there were several small hotels, patronized by working men, where small, clean rooms could be had with clean linen, warm blankets, hot water and good air—adjacent to soup kitchens, FOR $2.50 PER WEEK. If one engaged several rooms for a longer period, a rate might be made.

But how could one know which men needed these rooms?

One couldn't know. But the doctor at the clinic could know. When the doctor says—"This man needs a few days' rest—or a week's—or two weeks' rest"—the room is waiting.

What can you do to help if you only have a little money and want to do real service? That's what you can do. Get in touch with some clinic where such "ambulatory patient cases" are being treated.

Better still, get a few of your friends together and let each of you guarantee a room apiece for one, or two or more months' time. Even ONE ROOM FOR FOUR MONTHS might mean the difference between hope and despair, decency or crime, life or death to 15 or 20 men.

You want to help? Then there's your chance.

New York Day by Day

Nut Apartments

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—Nut apartments, sponsored by playboys, are adding a spice of gaiety to life's tedium to inspire these days. They are flossed up with all sorts of comical devices to inspire laughs and restore some of the jollity of the good old past.

Thus an invited guest may push the door buzzer upon arriving and receive a squirt of water in the face. A stage type of solemn butler will take the guest's hat, suddenly drop it to the floor and then swift kick it to one side.

At one I visited the other evening I was asked if I would wait a few moments in the reception hall. A little later the butler returned and reported that the host did not care to see me. In utter confusion I turned to go and was told the elevator has stopped running.

I was shown the stairway and walked down two flights when a policeman in uniform popped out and sneered: "Up to your old tricks, eh?" I explained in frightened falsetto the elevator was not working and that I was on my way to the street level.

"You can tell that at the station house," he snarled. "We have caught you at your old game—sneak thieving." I suppose my ghastly pallor kept him from going further for he whistled and a crowd rushed from around the corner and we awaited the next victim.

Another talked about nut party was a "musicale" in a 57th st. apartment. The entertainer was a pseudo Polish pianist. He ordered the lights dimmed, demanded perfect silence and skyrocketed other bursts of temperament. Then he sat down and played chop sticks.

In about a month the George Washington Memorial Bridge opens for traffic, and to my notion is New York's greatest wonder. The Empire, as an architectural feat, pales into insignificance beside the mile and a half span stretching from upper Riverside Drive to the Jersey palisades. Brooklyn Bridge is only half as long. It required fourteen years to build Brooklyn Bridge and four years for this Hudson structure. The bridge is especially beautiful in that purple glower that hazes the palisades at dusk. Flocks of painters are there daily to imprison the sheer grandeur on canvas. It is estimated 30,000,000 automobiles will cross it yearly.

There has been a mighty how-de-do about "whispering campaigns" against banks. It's late for banking institutions to squeal. Some banks brought on public suspicion by inexcusable methods. Many bankers are lucky they are not facing criminal indictments and until they clean up the ghastly mess in which they have involved millions of trusting innocents there will continue to be "whisperings." And how!

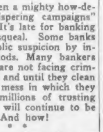
A lady and her husband who have lived at Forest Hills, L. I., for nine years never played or saw a professional game of tennis. This suburb, 20 minutes from New York, is one of the biggest tennis centers in America. On the other hand I am told of a man who saw his first tennis at Forest Hills this summer — a game between Mrs. Moody and an English player. He now plays daily and has a night court on the roof of his home. Incidentally, he gave up years of prodigious golf for his newer diversion.



I know little of tennis, save that professionally played it is richly exciting, but I believe it has suffered from its sissified game calls, such as "Love-Fifteen," "Love-All," "Fault" and "Advantage."

Writes Zoyalo R.—and what a pretty name: "I was at a theater recently when Lou Holz introduced you from the stage. You popped up like a jack-in-the-box for a quick bow only. Why didn't you stand in the aisle so we could see you full length?"

That was the evening I forgot and left home without my trousers.

Why Finance Only The Financiers?

President Hoover's new financial plan marks the end of an epoch.

It will tend to restore confidence and relieve a situation that has restricted credit to sound institutions.

The utter folly and recklessness of standing by and letting uncontrolled liquidation take its course has at length become patent.

Even standpat Wall Street financiers have come to the juncture where they favor a definitely conceived affirmative program for restoring normal business conditions.

The Hoover announcement marks the practical doom of the outmoded laissez faire doctrine in economics.

Action is timely at this occasion when the suspension of gold standard in Great Britain and eight other countries has stamped the dollar as the SUPREME UNIT OF CURRENCY.

As the world financial center, New York has recently become the temporary dumping place for the outside world of foreign-owned American stocks and bonds.

Aliens in their frantic quest for golden cash have found the quickest way to their goal was through the liquidation of American securities.

Jealous and irresponsible foreign interests, envious of America's new financial primacy, spread insidious rumors concerning possible economic weakness on this side.

In collaboration with bankers, President Hoover has served notice on the world that technicalities would be surmounted. Machinery would be forged to tap America's UNPARALLELED gold resources for the purpose of maintaining American economic supremacy.

The Chief Magistrate has proposed a setup for organizing banking relief, to end the fear psychology on the part of the public which has caused sound banks to keep themselves so abnormally liquid that they have been unable to perform their customary services to business.

Instead of proceeding directly through the Federal Reserve system to increase the availability of bank credit, the President proposes a privately subscribed banking pool of at least half a billion dollars for the rediscounting of bank paper which under the present law is not eligible for rediscount at the Federal Reserve.

It is purely an emergency measure. The President pledges that he will ask Congress to broaden the eligibility provision of the Federal Reserve act in order to give greater liquidity permanently to the assets of banks.

IN VIEW OF THE EMERGENCY, WHY DOES MR. HOOVER AVOID CALLING CONGRESS IN SPECIAL SESSION TO ACT ON HIS PROPOSAL, INSTEAD OF WAITING TWO MONTHS FOR THE REGULAR SESSION?

President Hoover further promises to recommend that Congress put additional capital into the Federal Land banks to assure their solvency, and better enable them to extend long term credit to farmers at a low rate.

The Hearst newspapers, which have long advocated a constructive plan for ending the deflation and restoring normal conditions of employment, welcome any indications of a desire to act, instead of continuation of the credit-destroying policy of inaction.

THEY RECOGNIZE THAT THE BANKS ARE AT THE NERVE CENTER OF OUR ECONOMIC SYSTEM, AND MUST BE SAFEGUARDED, IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST.

They believe that the good results from a fruitful program will gradually spread to ALL classes in the community.

BUT WHY, IF THE PRESIDENT RECOGNIZES THE NEED OF BANKING RELIEF, IS HE SO DEAF TO THE DEMAND FOR JOB-CREATING UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF?

WHY THINK ONLY OF FROZEN COLLATERAL, WHEN MORE THAN 6,000,000 HUMAN BEINGS ARE WALKING THE STREETS WITHOUT EMPLOYMENT?

If counter-deflation has become the objective, as well it might, a practical means in this direction would be the flotation of a Federal Prosperity Loan of $5,000,000,000 for the financing of useful public works and social reconstruction.

Such an operation would be carried on with the help of bank credit, which would be mobilized for prompt use in job-giving activities.

Any amplification of bank credit through manipulation without an accompanying program of production may result in a mere unwanted surfeit of bank reserves.

The depression should be fought on all fronts.

The prosperity loan would strengthen the practical usefulness of the Hoover plan.

Just Folks

The Problem

When the fire has burned the building and the stock it held is gone
And there's nothing left but ruin for the eye to look upon,
Though the loss is hard, my brother, there is nothing left to do
But to start that very minute to begin to build anew.

Every day presents a problem man must solve the best he can.
Do we need a morning sunny, rain may force a change of plan.
Each must face life as he finds it, not as he would have it be.
Of his hopes and dreams and labors there can be no guarantee.

When the ship goes down, my brother, and you're clinging to a spar,
There's no time to wail your losses till again on land you are.
Looking backward then is folly, you must fight as ne'er before.
For the problem of the moment is to get yourself to shore.

Now a changing world we're facing, things our hopes were built upon
Have come tumbling down in turmoil till the last of them is gone.
And our problem of the moment is that suddenly we've come
Out of valleys gay with pleasure unto mountains towering glum.

All our days of ease are ended. Now the road grows rough and steep.
And we find our burdens heavy and the pathway hard to keep.
We have had our hours of laughter, comes today a sterner time,
Mountains grim loom up before us which with courage we must climb.
